RINGING TALKS DELIVERED

Dunbar F. Carpenter, John L. Bennett and Warren M. Persons Among Speakers

The meeting of the executive committee of the National Council of the American Revolution in New York City was an important one. It was the first time since the organization was formed in 1900 that the committee had met. The committee was organized to coordinate the activities of the various branches of the organization and to plan for the future. The committee was composed of representatives from the various branches and was headed by the president of the organization. The committee's first task was to review the organization's activities and to make recommendations for improvement. The committee also discussed the organization's financial situation and its plans for the future. The committee's report was presented to the assembly and was adopted by a large majority. The committee's recommendations were to increase the organization's membership, to improve its financial situation, and to plan for the future. The committee's report was a landmark in the organization's history and marked the beginning of a new era of growth and development.

Mr. Bennett stated that the fight in the present campaign is one of principle and not of personalities; that the assembly has made the alignment clear and that, if the assembly candidates by associating with the voters, they can win over the others; that the only thing that they are to do is to make the fight and that it is incumbent upon every voter who wants to use a corrupt machine nomination in Canada, come to an end and to make the assembly candidates the people that first chance to prove themselves honest and sincere.

Persons Talks.

William M. Parsons, candidate for re-election to the House, gave the first of his series of addresses at the Chamber of Commerce last night.

His subject was "The State of the Nation."

He was accompanied by his wife and family.

STEWART OUTLINES VITAL ISSUES OF PRESENT POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

DENVER, Aug. 31.—Replying to a query made by The Denver Post, asking him what he regarded as the vital issue of his campaign in the state, Philip B. Stewart, Progressive Republican candidate for governor, replied as follows:

"I am fighting to make the Republican party an agency for clean and progressive government. My program is, first, to take over our own house; second, set it in order; third, make it a center of constructive legislation and just administration. As a start, I advocate: Abolishment of assembly; rigid corrupt practices act; non-partisan election judges; recall of elective officials; reapportionment of legislative districts; presidential preference primaries; public utilities commission; workmen's compensation act. On these statutes as our cornerstone, we can move surely toward our ideals of government—genuinely and honestly for the whole people."

regard to a pledge which Mr. Goerke, Mr. Thomas and I signed:

"Their pledge or statement of principles or oath of allegiance to what ever it may be, began thus:

"We pledge ourselves to the progressive legislation advocated in Philip B. Stewart's platform of principles given to the public on May 19."

"The saints preserve us! Not the Republican platform, nor the Democratic platform, nor yet the Bull Moose platform, but the Philip B. Stewart platform."

Points Out Ignorance.

"If the editor of the evening sheet would only set some one to send him a copy of the primary law, he would find that there is no Republican state platform, or Democratic state platform, or Bull Moose state platform."

Under the new law it is incumbent upon the candidates nominated at the district primary in September to make their own platform. I maintain that candidates for legislative nominations should let the voters know for what they stand before the primary. I do not believe in a gunshoe campaign or underground politics."

"Again, this evening, the Telegram published this editorial statement:

"Two of the candidates who are seeking the Republican nomination for the legislature in this county have signed statements and have recorded them with the secretary of state, declaring that they nominated and elected to the legislature, they will vote for the people's choice, for United States senator. These candidates are W. M. Parsons and Curt Goerke, who assert that they are Progressives.

"These men, over their own signatures, have declared that notwithstanding the fact that they would be elected as Republicans, they would nevertheless vote for two Democratic United States senators, if those two men happened to receive the largest popular vote in the forthcoming primary."

"The pledge that Mr. Goerke and I made was absolutely nothing to do with the September primary. We are pledged to vote for the candidate for United States senator in congress who has received the highest number of the people's votes for that office at THE GENERAL ELECTION next preceding."

"I believe in the popular election of United States senators. Believing this, I signed the pledge and I am willing to go before the voters against Mr. Wolff, Mr. Potter and Mr. Dunbar on this issue. I challenge any of these gentlemen or the editor of the Telegram to a public debate on the four pledges which my two colleagues, Mr. Goerke and Mr. Thomas, and I have signed."

DENVER DETECTIVE MOBBED BY MINERS

BOULDER, Aug. 31.—James O'Connor, a Denver detective, was seriously injured at Louisville tonight while endeavoring to protect S. T. Bennett, formerly superintendent at the Centennial mine, from the attacks of infuriated miners.

Bennett, who is now agent for an oil company, became involved with the miners in the streets and fought his way into a saloon.

Sent by the Centennial mine owners, O'Connor made his way through the mob about the saloon and started with Bennett for the Colorado Southern depot. They were mobbed there, Bennett escaped by flight, but O'Connor, knocked down, was kicked about until unconscious. Then his pockets were rifled. He crawled to a drug store after the mob departed.

ARGUES FOR SIMPLICITY IN JUDGE'S INSTRUCTIONS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 31.—A plea for simplicity in the instructions of a judge to a jury was made today before the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, by Charles A. De Courcy, of Boston, who favored the use of the judge of words almost bordering on what is known as "the language of the street."

That homicides should be tried immediately after the crime is committed, was the argument of Judge S. H. Russell of Oklahoma, speaking on the question of procedure in criminal cases. If Judge Russell had the dictation of how such trials should be run, he would do away with "extenuating circumstances," the "unwritten law," "moral storms," "dementia Americana," or any of the other popular excuses for shedding blood. The only excuse for killing, he contended, is self defense.

MEXICANS TO TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT FOREIGN RESIDENTS

Rebels in Vera Cruz Are Displaying Savage Instincts; Torture and Kill Many

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 31.—Assurance that immediate action would be taken to protect the foreign residents of Cananea Sonora, was given Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson today when acting under instructions from the state department at Washington, he protested against withdrawal of troops.

Some 2,000 Americans in Cananea regard their plight as precarious, according to the ambassador's message from Washington. Until two days ago, the government had maintained troops there and the residents and managers of the mining interests located there were reasonably safe. Rebels under command of Mascarelos and other leaders have drawn close, and have sent a message that they soon will take possession of the rich mining camp. It is presumed General Huerta soon will have in operation in that region a number of flying columns.

Advices to the American embassy are that more bridges along the line of the Southern Pacific between Guaymas and Nogales have been destroyed by rebels. Official advices are that the rebels are being driven from the state.

Display Savage Instincts.

Rebels in the state of Vera Cruz are displaying the same savage instincts that characterize the Zapatistas in the south. At Estenizuela, a station on the Vera Cruz and Pacific railway, a small band, headed by a man named Jose Bay, a raider in his house because he refused them money. Death was delayed by repeated covering of his body to the floor. The same band later in the day tortured and killed two other men on a neighboring ranch. Another band, operating in the same district, hanged a dying boy.

Reports from Toluca, capital of the state of Mexico, indicate a condition almost chaotic. With the exception of Zacualpan and Villaguelo all the villages in the surrounding districts are in the power of the rebels.

Two brothers named Carbajal have offered 10,000 pesos for volunteers to protect their property in that state. Two months ago the Zapatistas slaughtered another brother of that family.

In Morelos the Zapatistas have shown renewed activity, yesterday sacking Tecapetitla, not far from Cuernavaca.

REBELS ASSAULT RANCH OWNED BY VICE CONSUL

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Aug. 31.—The ranch belonging to American Vice Consul Frank A. Dickinson of this city, known as "Peralta," in the district of Abasco, Guanajuato, as assaulted by rebels for the third time on the night of August 28, according to advices received today. The raiders numbered more than 200 and entered the ranch with "horses" for Zapata. No resistance was offered, and they took away everything of value.

Protection had been asked of the Mexican authorities, as it was known the rebels were in the immediate neighborhood. The local government, and 50 rurales had found no rebels and had returned to their barracks.

The administrator says there are 1,000 rebels or bandits hidden in the vicinity and the available government forces to resist them is not more than 200.

The assurances given the rebels that Peralta was an American owned property had no effect.

REBELS FORAGING HORSES AND LOOTING FARM HOUSES

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 31.—Three hundred and fifty rebels are foraging horses and provisions and looting ranch houses near Oltos, in a district supposed to be garrisoned by federal troops, according to a message received tonight at the headquarters here of the Mormon colonists in Mexico. Oltos is southwest of Juarez.

REPORT 2 AMERICAN MARINES KILLED IN NICARAGUAN SCRAPE

With More Than 800 Marines, Balboa Looks Resizable Big Military Camp

PANAMA, Aug. 31.—Reliable information from Nicaragua, received here today is the effect that two American marines have been killed there.

Eight hundred marines sent from Philadelphia on board the transport Prairie for service in Nicaragua, arrived at Balboa from Colon this afternoon, and tonight are camping on the docks there. They will transfer their equipment to the cruiser California, but will remain in the city. The California arrived today, but is remaining outside the bay as her captain, after a consultation with the port and canal zone authorities, decided not to dock the vessel in the fear that she might touch bottom.

The Balboa docks, resemble a large military camp with the marines and their officers and the stacked arms of the men. There are on the docks also 15 box cars containing arms, ammunition and provisions and two protected automatic guns are on a flat car.

The American sailors and marines now on Nicaragua soil were landed with a view to opening communication between the beleaguered capital, Granada, and protecting American lives and interests. They also have been at work repairing the railroad tracks, bridges and telegraph lines destroyed by the revolutionists.

As far as has been reported officially, the American forces in the Central American republic have had no further trouble with the insurgents than to warn them that excesses would not be tolerated. The nearest approach to a brush occurred at Leon, where Commander Terhune of the submarine Albatross, who was taking a force of 500 Americans to Managua from Corinto, had to threaten the hostile Liberals that he would attack Leon if they attempted to bar the train carrying his men from entering the town. The Liberals then made no further objection, and Commander Terhune entered and passed through Leon and proceeded to Managua.

Last Thursday a rumor reached Panama that 50 marines had been killed in Nicaragua, but this turned out to be untrue.

EXPECT HUERTA IN JUAREZ TOMORROW

JUAREZ, Mex., Aug. 31.—Gen. Victoriano Huerta, federal commander of the north, is expected to arrive here tomorrow with 500 federal troops from the city of Chihuahua. For a time late today telegraph communication ceased along the railway to the southwest over which Huerta's two trains were moving, and some excitement prevailed here. But it is learned that rain and not rebels caused only a temporary interruption of the wire.

REBELS DEMAND SURRENDER OF THE TOWN OF NACAZARI

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 31.—Word was received from Nacozari tonight that the rebels had demanded the surrender of the town. Shortly after the news came, the wires south of Frontiers were cut and no further information could be had.

A special train is being made ready in Agua Prieta to take federal soldiers south as soon as anything definite can be learned.

There are 15 Americans at Nacozari, including 11 women. Many Mormon refugees arrived in town today, and many others are on the way here.

CANAL WILL BE FINISHED SEPTEMBER OF NEXT YEAR

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—In a personal letter to Clarence H. Matson, secretary of the Los Angeles board of harbor commissioners, Col. George Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama canal, said that the transisthmian waterway would be handling inter-oceanic traffic in September, 1913. This, however, according to Colonel Goethals, would be a "tryout" in preparation for the formal opening a year later.

ARCHBOLD DOESN'T MIND ROOSEVELT'S CHARGES

LONDON, Aug. 31.—When John D. Archbold, president of the Standard Oil company, arrived at the Plymouth on the steamer Niagara, he was told that Colonel Roosevelt had denounced him as being a falsifier for his testimony before the senate committee investigating campaign contributions.

"That is just like him," said Mr. Archbold. "I don't mind it. I adhere to every word I said, and when I return to New York I will be prepared to substantiate, any allegations."

WELL-KNOWN NEW YORKER KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

WESTCHESTER, Pa., Aug. 31.—Arthur Wood, president of the Builders' Supply company of Brooklyn, N. Y., was instantly killed, and five others were injured, two dangerously, when an automobile in which they were touring the state turned turtle tonight at Glenloch, near here. The car was going at high speed when, in a attempting to turn out for another machine, it ran into a ditch.

REPORTED EX-PRESIDENT NICARAGUA IS IN PANAMA

PANAMA, Aug. 31.—Local newspapers today published a report that former President Zelaya of Nicaragua, whose government was overthrown in 1909 by the revolution headed by General Estrada, has arrived in Colon on his way to Nicaragua. Inquiries at the Nicaraguan and American legations failed to confirm the report.

YOUR HAIR BECOMES FLUFFY, BEAUTIFUL AND LUSTROUS IN JUST A FEW MOMENTS

Girls! Get a 25 cent bottle of "Danderine" and try this. Also stops falling hair; destroys dandruff.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this moisture cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair grow and downy at first, but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and just try it.

Laughs Galore, Thrills A-plenty, in "Officer 666"

"Gives me back my uniform," says "Officer 666," who is induced to lose the insignia of his calling to the millionaire in the play, thereby involving this particular policeman in a series of complicated situations that are the means of arousing billions of hearty laughter.

The millionaire in "Officer 666" has just returned from abroad, where he went in search of a thrill. He found it when he reached his home in New York to discover it occupied by a swell crackman, who has also appropriated his name.

Proposing to the girl of his choice with a pair of handcuffs locked on his wrists is an experience that comes to but few, and one that is not likely to set the fashion. Nevertheless, Whitney Barnes does it in the third act of "Officer 666," and his acceptance by Sadie Small frames a love scene in that melodramatic force of thrilling heart throbs and mystery that furnishes one of the many delightful scenes in this intensely interesting play.

The coolest crook in the world. He assumes a millionaire's name, occupies his house while attempting to rife it, and makes the police believe him to be an honest man. This scene is one of the many thrilling ones enacted in "Officer 666."

Cupid's shaft finds two targets in "Officer 666," that play of thrills, heart throbs and mystery.

"Officer 666," Coban & Harris' latest success, will be offered at the Opera house with the one performance only, taking place Monday evening, September 9.

There is no doubt concerning the success of Augustin MacHugh's play, for in spite of the fact that it contains one or two criminal characters, it abounds neither in pathetic, gruesome nor dramatic passages. It is pure fun from beginning to end, with a laugh in almost every speech and situation. The characters are not caricatures, but cleverly drawn types, an array of ludicrously comical ones, drawn from both high and low classes. The author's knowledge of criminal virtuosity, gained in earlier days as a police court reporter, has stood him in good stead in the creating of the aristocratic rogue, Wilson. It gave him the faculty of imparting an aspect of truth to impossible adventures in the planning of this adroit and accomplished stage rascal.

The succession of adventures takes place in a Fifth avenue drawing room during the lapse of only a few hours. Travers Gladwin, a rich young amateur art collector, who has traveled the earth with his friend, Whitney Barnes, in search of a new sensation, returns unexpectedly to find it awaiting him, ready-made, at home. With the help of a dishonest valet, a notorious picture thief, Alfred Wilson, has assumed Gladwin's name, taken possession of the premises and is getting ready to depose the art collection of its treasures. The bogus Gladwin has also won the affection of a top-trustful young girl, Helen Burton, and is preparing to elope with her that very night.

Earlier in the afternoon, the real Gladwin has seen Helen in a restaurant and her pretty face has made an impression on his susceptible heart. He comes face to face with her a few hours later in the drawing room of his own house, where she has gone to arrange the final details of the elopement. How to rescue Helen and at the same time save his pictures, becomes the problem which confronts Gladwin. With his friend, Barnes, who is quite too thick-witted to be of much assistance, he sets about the task, uppermost in his mind being the desire to protect the girl from unseemly notoriety.

Gladwin bribes a convenient policeman to lend him his uniform and other insignia of authority, and returns to his house to surprise Wilson in the act of cutting the most valuable pictures from their frames. As Helen has not yet arrived, there is nothing to do but wait and wait for her. Meanwhile Gladwin gets some astounding information from Wilson, who is an art connoisseur as well as thief, regarding the worthlessness of several of the canvases for which he has paid extravagant amounts; and to keep up the deception he practices, he finds himself compelled to add the thief to his palatial collection.

At the appointed hour Helen arrives to keep her engagement, and the real Gladwin gives the alarm to the policeman who has been hiding in the house. This minion, Officer 666, of the title, has, meanwhile, grown resentful against Gladwin for having kept his uniform so long and subjected him to the risk of discipline. The cool picture thief proves equal to the emergency and succeeds in convincing the policeman that the real Gladwin is the impostor and that he, Wilson, is the

Fall Stock Season Opens Monday at 'The Burns'

As already announced in these columns, Belasco's delightful comedy, "Nobody's Widow," is the bill for next week with a special matinee on Labor day. The other matinee days this week will be Wednesday and Saturday. To avoid confusion, special attention is drawn to the fact that no further Tuesday or Thursday matinees will be given.

There are three scenes which are receiving special attention in the matter of stage settings, calling for superb furnishings and these, the Burns are surely going to provide its patrons with.

For next week, the acts are as follows: Act I—The house in Betty Jackson's summer home at Palm Beach, Florida. Act II—The same. One week later. Act III—Roxana's dressing room in Betty's home. 2 p. m. the next morning.

Theatergoers will remember this play as being Miss Bates' favorite comedy part. It registered one of the biggest hits in the New York season and was unquestionably one of the greatest successes that Belasco toured the country with.

The New York papers on commenting on this production said that David Belasco had provided his star with a legitimate successful successor to "The Girl of the Golden West" in "Nobody's Widow" and that seems to be the general consensus of opinion of those who had witnessed what was pronounced as the comedy sensation of the season.

The central figure of this farcical romance, as it is designated in the advertising, is a keenly sensitive and dangerously attractive American woman, "Roxana Clayton" by name, who goes to Europe, falls in love for the first time in her life and precipitately marries the man of her choice. Before the honeymoon has been above the wedding horizon, the new-made husband is discovered kissing and fondling another young woman, who is later recognized as a former sweetheart.

Placed at what she thinks an unpardonable indiscretion, Roxana leaves him, returns to America and, abashed at the most stunning of wrongs, announces the untimely death of her newly-wedded husband. At a home party in Palm Beach the husband confronts the unsuspecting Roxana and the fun begins. Then for three acts the complications come fast and furious, with the line of demarcation between farce and comedy so cleverly drawn that the master hand of David Belasco is readily recognized.

All in all it may be said that "Nobody's Widow" is a delightful comedy, as light and fascinating as a thistle-down and as deliciously effervescent as a glass of champagne, with a novelty of motif and constructive quality that is bound to establish it as one of the successes of the Burns stock.

Our leading lady, Miss Wayne, will have a full opportunity in "Nobody's Widow." Many of our productions in the past have favored the male part of the cast. Next week it is the lady's opportunity.

Miss Florence Hart is fortunately well versed in her part and her many admirers will surely be increased.

Mr. Cross has an excellent opportunity. A more conscientious and painstaking actor it would be hard to find and in his hands our English friend in "Nobody's Widow" is sure of an acceptable presentation.

Mr. William J. Fink, whose orchestra is an integral part of our performances, has prepared a program for next week that is a concert worth the price of admission in itself.

Mr. Burns has secured the services of a most experienced theatrical man in New York, with a view of securing special attractions for his beautiful play house during the fall and winter season, outside of the stock productions which will be continued so long as the public show their appreciation of them.

Special Note—Arrangements are under way at great cost for an early date in October for the president's own band of 50 soloists the celebrated sea-

"Marine Band" from Washington, D. C.

For the week commencing September 9, arrangements have been made with Lieber & Company of New York for the production of "Meady Mary Ann." This is entirely new 15-minute section of the country. It is a delightful romance.

If conclusion, we have once more to remind you that our prices for matinees range from 25 cents to 50 cents and for evening performances 50 cents to 75 cents, there being no such thing as bad seats in the house. We aim to be prompt at every performance in our seating and prompt admissions to be on time.

For the good of the majority we have been compelled to adopt the rule that babies in arms will not be admitted, and that all children must have tickets as they occupy seats.

Tickets, reserved and not paid for, must be called for half an hour before each performance.

True lovers of music of whom happily there are a great many in Colorado Springs, will be interested in the musical program to be rendered by the Fink orchestra all next week. Numbers as follows:

March—Hail, Hail, Hail! (Rev. Scores from London)

Modulation—Ave Maria (Antonin Dvorak)

(a) German (b) Russian (c) Polish (d) Hungarian (e) Bohemian (f) French (g) Italian (h) Spanish (i) Portuguese (j) Greek (k) Latin (l) Celtic (m) Slavonic (n) Oriental (o) Miscellaneous

For Labor day we have a special half-price show of the interior of the house as a surprise.

Easy to Get Rid of Corns THIS Way

"GETS-IT" the New Corn Cure. Guaranteed.

"Corns Gone! GETS-IT GOT 'Em!"

"GETS-IT" is the new-phen corn cure that will surely surprise you the very first time you use it. It is so simple, painless, quick and sure in its action.

It shrivels up the corn, wart, callous or bunion, separates them from the true flesh; the corn comes off, and there you are, with feet that feel positively glorious, corn-free once more as they used to be in your "barefoot days."

The most remarkable feature is that "GETS-IT" does not harm or turn raw the healthy flesh as other preparations do. It is as safe as water. No more plasters, bandages, or salves.

"GETS-IT" is sold at drug stores at 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

MISS JUSTINA WAYNE, WHO WILL PLAY THE LEADING ROLE IN "NOBODY'S WIDOW" AT THE BURNS THIS WEEK.

Mrs. Inez Johnson Lewis

Democratic Candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction

Mrs. Lewis is too well known in El Paso county to need any introduction to the readers of the local press. After four years of highly efficient work as superintendent of schools in this county, Mrs. Lewis is a candidate on the Democratic ticket for nomination as state superintendent of public instruction. In this she shows a commendable ambition, for it is a good thing in public life as in commercial affairs that efficient service in any position should be the stepping stone to higher fields of action. Mrs. Lewis has displayed unusual efficiency in her present position and is well qualified for the duties of the office to which she aspires.

The record made by Mrs. Lewis in public life has been unusual and interesting. On two occasions she has turned a Republican majority of more than 2,000 into a Democratic majority of about 4,500, and while circumstances may have had something to do with it, the result was largely due to her own personality. Her race for state superintendent gives El Paso county an opportunity to be placed on the map on the Democratic state ticket and every Democrat in the county should go to the polls and give Mrs. Lewis a record vote in her own county. This would help her a long way to the party nomination and there is no question but that she will be a strong addition to the Democratic state ticket. If she gets the nomination it will give El Paso county a chance to land one of the important state offices, and from an educational standpoint there is no county in the state more deserving of the prize.

While the primary law to a large extent deprives party candidates of the support that their friends in the opposite party might be pleased to give them in the primary election, at least every adherent of the Democratic party in this county ought to make it a point to get out and vote for Mrs. Lewis.

City Briefs

SOCIALIST MEETING—T. W. Ruz, Socialist candidate for Congress from the Second district, will address a meeting at Carpenters hall at 8 o'clock tonight. Questions will be answered.

CROPS DAMAGED—While Colorado Springs was experiencing a heavy rainstorm Friday afternoon, a severe hail storm occurred over a limited area at Fortus, in the southern part of the county. Some of the crops in that district were badly damaged.

RESERVOIR FULL—For the first time since the construction of the dam of reservoir No. 2, in 1904, according to Water Superintendent McReynolds, the reservoir is full enough for water to go over the spillway. The dam is holding well and there are now 650,000,000 gallons of water in the reservoir.

SPEAKS ON CHINA—At 8 o'clock this evening at the First Christian church, Miss Mary Kelly will lecture on "China, the Land of the Great Wall." Miss Kelly has spent the last seven years in China, and will return to that land, sailing September 1. The Cento Ladies' quartet will sing at the meeting tonight.

BREWSTER TO TALK—The sermon at the union religious services at Stratton park at 8 o'clock this afternoon, from the band pavilion immediately following the concert, will be delivered by the Rev. E. E. Brewster, pastor of the First Christian church. The services will be limited to 30 minutes, and the sermon, to 15 minutes.

LICENSES—Four marriage licenses were granted by the county clerk yesterday, as follows: Claude Maury, aged 22, of Boulder, and Miss May Harklerode, 18, Colorado Springs; Lea Burdette Curtis, 26, and Mrs. Rachel Silvia Taylor, 22, both of Colorado Springs.

Spring: Herbert Riddle, 21, and Miss Kate M. Moser, both of this city, and Alonzo G. Beck, Jr., of Pueblo, and Miss Mabel E. Brown, this city. Macey and Miss Harklerode later were married by Justice Dunnington. Mrs. Taylor was divorced here in July, 1911, on the ground of nonsupport.

GEORGE CREEL OF DENVER TO MARRY BLANCH BAILES

DENVER, Aug. 31.—George Creel, editorial writer on the Rocky Mountain News, and police commissioner of this city, today announced his engagement to Blanch Bailes, the San Francisco actress.

CAPTAIN OF CARPATHIA RECIPIENT MORE HONORS

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Capt. A. S. Rostron of the steamer Carpathia, which raced to the scene of the Titanic disaster last April and picked up 704 survivors, was the recipient of more honors today, when the Life Saving Benevolent society presented him with a gold medal.

TWO MEN SHOT BY SEATTLE STREET CAR CONDUCTOR

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 31.—Oliver W. Sanford, aged 50, and his son, Otis, aged 24, were shot and killed at the end of the Ballard Beach carline tonight by J. T. Tribett, a street car conductor, 35 years old, following a scuffle on the car between the conductor and the men.

VIOLENT TYPHOON IN CHINA

ANGON, Aug. 31.—A violent typhoon swept Fuché, Thursday night, and caused great loss of life and damage to property. Swimmers from the north report the sea off the mouth of the Min river strewn with hundreds of bodies.

"CHICK" BABE "RESIGNS" WITH THREE "MOTHERS"

While the three young women who left Bethel hospital last night on account of abortion with the Denver board are representative of their class, the professional women, they are not nearly so interested in the South as the South is in the whole sale resignation, Robert M. Standish.

Mr. Standish in the first place is lucky, far luckier than the average, for while it is quite common to have one mother, to have three perfectly well parents to whom he can shout "main-mour" is as much as the most greedy could expect.

Some seven months ago Robert Miles first drew breath. He was literally a "chick," for he was born in the incubator at Bethel hospital. Thereafter he was placed on exhibition, as looking for some competent couple to undertake his upbringing.

He weighed only a trifle more than four pounds, and as a result there were no applicants for the honor. Finally the trio who resigned together last night, became sensitive about it, and declaring that the general public would have to "stop kicking" their "chick" around, singly and collectively adopted him. The honor of naming him, they gave to their superior, and hence he bears the proud cognomen, Standish.

He proved worthy of adoption, too, for although no one but the three shammas could understand him, when they left last night he loudly proclaimed that he also would resign, so today he is happily residing with them at 319 North Logan avenue.

CALL MEETING NEW YORK PROGRESSIVE COMMITTEE

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—A call for a meeting of the state committee of the Progressive party to meet at Sprague street Wednesday to outline a program for the state convention which will be held there on Thursday, was issued today by Provisional Chairman W. H. Hotchkiss. At that time the committee will organize, adopt rules and select temporary officers for the convention.

A new departure in political procedure has been adopted in having the resolutions committee named in advance of the convention. Each assembly district has been called upon to designate its member and the committee will meet Tuesday to begin drafting the platform. So far three women have been designated to serve on it.

CHINESE CANDIDATES VICE PRESIDENTS OF PANAMA

PANAMA, Aug. 31.—Candidates for first, second and third vice presidents of the republic were chosen today by the committees of the various parties assembled in joint meeting. The designates are Rodolfo Chiari, Ramon Valdes and Aristides Arjona. It is expected that most of the members of the minority will vote for Senor Chiari.

FORMER SURGEON OF MEXICAN ARMIES IS AGAIN IN AMERICA

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 31.—Dr. James L. Wilson, former surgeon general of Francisco Madero's army, which Madero was opposing Diaz, and more recently surgeon general of General Orozco's rebel forces, returned to his home in Tulsa, today, after two years with the rebel armies in Mexico. He escaped by traveling 700 miles overland with another American, a German and a Mexican, who lived in the United States. The quartet had one horse among them. Before they reached Juarez, they were overtaken by a band of rebel marauders, and all their possessions, even their shoes, were taken from them. Dr. Wilson declared that at Juarez he was captured and forced into service at the federal hospital. He escaped in the night.

Dr. Wilson has with him more than 500 official passports, appointments, etc., bearing signatures of both Madero and Orozco, as well as every general of importance in both armies. "I worked for both Orozco and Madero as a surgeon," said Dr. Wilson. "and was the only surgeon with either army. I stayed with Orozco until his army divided into small bands. They are now looting everything in sight and taking lives recklessly."

"I have seen rebel soldiers kill for nothing by fastening a rope to their ankles, and then starting horses with ropes in opposite directions, tearing the victim limb from limb."

POISON FROM PEACH ROOTS CAUSE DEATH OF NOTED SCULPTOR

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 31.—Poison extracted from the roots of peach trees and which was one of the ingredients of a medicine prescribed by Lee Hang Chow, the Chinese herb doctor, is believed by Coroner J. C. Snyder to have caused the death of Louis Potter, the New York sculptor, who died here Thursday while under treatment for a hernial disease.

The coroner said today he expected the presence of this poison to be shown by the chemists examining the stomach of the dead man. An analysis of the medicine also is being made and the police are instituting a search of Pacific coast cities for the Chinese doctor, who has been missing since Potter's death.

The woman who was with Potter at the hotel where he had registered as "Dr. Perez and wife" was found last night at the office of a physician who has been treating her since her collapse at the time of Potter's death.

She refused to reveal her identity to Coroner Snyder, but admitted, the coroner stated, that she had not been legally married to the sculptor. The coroner obtained her promise to remain here until the missing Chinese had been found and the death of the sculptor fully explained. From this woman the coroner learned much of the nature of the disease with which Potter was afflicted and also of the treatment applied by the Chinese doctor.

According to friends here, Potter had long been deeply interested in oriental mysticism, but none of those questioned had heard anything from the sculptor at the hands of the Chinese. Dr. Snyder said today that he did not believe it would be necessary to hold an inquest but that a criminal information would be filed direct as soon as the Chinese was found. Potter's body is still held by the coroner, but he will confer with the prosecuting attorney today when it can be released by shipment east.

EXPECT LIGHT VOTE AT DENVER PRIMARY

DENVER, Aug. 31.—Up until the night before the primaries, which will be held September 19, every section of the state will be "covered" by Republican campaigneers. In the past four days Chairman Hagdon, Teller of the speakers' bureau, has billed northern and southern Colorado with campaigneering teams of from three to seven speakers who have drawn enthusiastic audiences in the cities where they have appeared, Greeley, Fort Collins, Trinidad and Walsenburg.

Tonight at Pueblo, all candidates on the Republican ticket will be present to attend a meeting which will follow a luncheon in their honor. The fight which is being waged is against the pretensions of the Stewart-Vincent combination of Roosevelt Republicans that they have a right to participate in the Republican primaries. During the past four days the Republican campaign teams, among whom have been the senatorial candidates, Dawson and Waterman, and other candidates on the state ticket, have closely followed upon the trail of the Stewart-Vincent Griffith propaganda.

From tonight's meeting until September 9 all of the candidates will campaign together and the primary voters Boulder, Wray, Rocky Ford, Colorado Springs and Denver, where the antiprimary windup will be made in a great campaign meeting at the Auditorium. Following is the itinerary of the candidates:

September 3—Boulder in connection with the Metal Miners picnic.

September 4—Wray, county fair.

September 5—Rocky Ford, Melon day, no meeting.

September 6—Colorado Springs.

September 7—Denver, Auditorium, night meeting.

Both Republicans and Democrats anticipate a light vote at the primaries, especially in Denver. At Democratic headquarters the primary vote is estimated at not more than 10,000 all over the state. The estimate of Republican headquarters is that the combined Republican and Democratic vote will not exceed 15,000 and that the majority of the vote will be outside of Denver.

State Chairman Jesse E. McDonald of the Republican state committee.

VICE PRESIDENT RECOVERING HEALTH

Now that Vice President Sherman is out of danger, the facts regarding his illness are becoming known. He was attacked while in the Adirondack mountains, four weeks ago, by a serious case of nervous indigestion. It is said that his hearing was affected, and that for a time his condition was considered alarming. Formal notification of his renomination for the vice presidency will be given August 21.

CHAUFFEUR BLAMES OTHER SOCIALIST AND LABOR DRIVER IN BOULDER WRECK PARTIES OF ENGLAND JOIN

BOULDER, Colo., Aug. 31.—A coroner's inquest was begun late yesterday afternoon to fix the responsibility for the death of Mada Hissler from injuries received in Tuesday night's automobile accident in South Boulder canyon. The jury will have the case under consideration for some time, as an adjournment was taken after the session until Mrs. R. H. McCord and Miss Catherine Tuggle of Kansas City and Miss R. H. Hays of Ripley of Boulder, the other occupants of the car who were seriously injured, are able to appear to give testimony.

It now appears that Paul Reed, driving the McCord car, took a chance at passing the Overfelt car, rather than running into it. Overfelt, it is charged, did not give Reed clearance.

Reed's story is that he first saw the approaching car fully 100 feet away and thought Overfelt would give him room to pass. Although Overfelt never killed his engine, he could, it is declared, easily have given two feet more of clearance, as Reed scraped the other car before tapping over the bank. A test was made yesterday afternoon, showing that such a car could pass at that point with fully two feet of clearance.

Reed, who states that he was running about 15 miles an hour, Overfelt now agreeing with him on that point, says that when he found that there was not sufficient room to pass, applied his brakes. As he came to a full stop the back of his car struck the rear wheel and the heavy car slid backward, turning the turtle twice in its descent.

PARIS HAS EPIDEMIC OF MUSHROOM POISONING

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Poisonous fungi of the mushroom species are proving almost as fatal in France this summer as an epidemic of the plague. No less than 15 deaths of persons who had eaten what they believed to be mushrooms were reported today in various parts of the country. This is the heaviest death toll of a single day, but for a fortnight several deaths daily have been recorded.

RUSSIA DOES NOT SEEK A CARDANELLES OUTLET

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—The chief of the Russian admiralty staff, Admiral Prince Ljapunov, who recently was successful in conducting in Paris the negotiations for the Franco-Russian naval convention, has created such a stir in political circles all over Europe by coming forth with some very interesting statements in a recent interview. After stating that Russia is making a mighty effort to reach the Pacific through the construction of a most formidable fleet of modern dreadnoughts and superdreadnoughts at the rate of at least one battleship a year for the next five years, he says that he does not think Russian diplomacy will endeavor to gain an outlet through the Dardanelles for her Black Sea fleet.

What is the good of paper treaties, he exclaims. "Whatever nation holds the straits will always act when the occasion arises according to her own interests, and only force can impose upon her a different line of action. The interest of nations is to day the most powerful factor in their friendship and enmities, and this more than any treaty or agreement, and that is the real basis of agreement. For a year the Franco-Russian alliance, practically as it is to day, countries has withered away, because it was based on a necessary counterpoise to the hegemony sought for by Germany and the Triple alliance.

INVESTIGATING RELATION UNITED STATES CAPITAL TO MEXICAN REBELLIONS

EL PASO, Aug. 31.—Albert B. Fall, United States senator from New Mexico, who arrived here yesterday, today began an investigation of the relation of American capital to Mexican rebellions, on behalf of the subcommittee of the senatorial committee on foreign affairs, of which he and William Allen Smith, senator from Michigan, are executive members.

"We will investigate not only the effect of American capital on the rebellions," he said, "but also the effect of the rebellions on American capital."

Senator Fall, who is the chief of the subcommittee, said that the committee will investigate the effect of the rebellions on American capital, and the effect of American capital on the rebellions.

Senator Fall will be joined at Los Angeles by Senator Smith, and together they will visit various points on the border in Arizona and New Mexico. Their report will be made at the next session of the senate.

WILFRED WALKER DIES; WAS THOUGHT BETTER

DENVER, Aug. 31.—Wilfred Walker, son of John B. Walker, who underwent an operation for appendicitis Monday, died at St. Luke's hospital yesterday. He came to Denver about a month ago from Chicago for medical treatment and was believed to be improving when he was stricken with an acute attack of appendicitis. He was taken to St. Luke's the following day when the operation was performed.

He appeared to be first from the shock of the operation but later suffered a relapse, sinking rapidly yesterday. His wife, who accompanied him, was at the bedside when he died.

His father, who is in charge of the exploitation and control of all nations for the Panama Pacific exposition in San Francisco, left Denver for the coast town Saturday, believing his son was out of danger.

Wilfred Walker was 24 years old. He was associated in business with his father during the latter's residence in New York and came to Colorado about five years ago. He went to California three years ago.

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES

For Nomination at the Primaries Tuesday, September 10th

MERLE D. VINCENT

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for United States Senator Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Merle D. Vincent of Paonia, Colorado, was the only Republican member of the state senate to vote against Mr. Guggenheim as candidate for United States senator. For this he was maligned, abused and threatened with every weapon peculiar to politics.

Mr. Vincent is an attorney, highly educated and possesses a pleasing appearance. He is a profound student of political economy. He is a pioneer in the progressive movement in Colorado.

Mr. Vincent is in the broadest sense a self-made man. He was a cowboy in northern Colorado and a miner in Cripple Creek. He is the application of brain and brawn he has acquired his education, and by a constant and unwavering loyalty to honest principles has made himself one of the cleanest characters in Colorado.

ers and Merchants bank, a position he has held for 12 years.

Dr. Van Buskirk is an ideal type of the successful man and a citizen of whom Rocky Ford is justly proud.

R. D. REES

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court of Colorado, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

The subject of this sketch was raised in eastern Kansas, and will be on the age of 42 years on October 1, 1912.

His father was engaged in farming and stock raising and was one of the pioneers of Kansas, arriving there before the advent of the railroad.

Mr. Rees spent his boyhood days on the farm. He attended school at Florence, Marion county, Kansas, and later graduated from the Kansas Normal school in 1885.

Like a great many others, he secured his start by teaching school, and was one of the professors at the Kansas Normal Institute during the years 1888 and 1887. Meanwhile, and after that time, he read law in the office of Judge Frank Foster, since chief justice of the Kansas supreme court.

Mr. Rees was admitted to practice in all the courts of Kansas in the year 1889, and for a time practiced law at Cottonwood Falls, Kan. He came to Denver on March 10, 1890. During that month he was admitted to practice in the supreme court of the state of Colorado, and shortly thereafter was admitted to practice in the United States courts.

He has been engaged continuously in the practice of law ever since his admission to the bar.

Mr. Rees has always been an ardent, constant advocate of a pure, fair and impartial judiciary, and with the exception of his efforts in that respect, he has never been identified heretofore with politics.

BENAMIN F. GRIFFITH

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Attorney General Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Attorney General Ben Griffith is at the present time one of the popular young men in Colorado. He is a graduate of Colorado college, formerly a star football player, an excellent attorney and a man who has made a record of which Republicans are proud.

His former home was in Canon City, Colorado. Later he moved to Montrose and then to Grand Junction, where the law firm with which he is connected has a large practice. Mr. Griffith, on account of his popularity, was elected attorney general two years ago by a large majority against the figures of a Democratic year.

During his administration he has waged legal war against the trusts which seek to control the prices of commodities produced by the farmers and the miners and laboring classes. Two or three suits are pending in court at the present time against organizations of this character and he states that if he is reelected he will continue vigorous prosecution of those who take advantage of the laws as now exist and attempt to lessen the profit honestly earned by the producer.

one of the pioneers of the Pike's Peak region. Mr. Sumner was educated in Colorado Springs, attending the public schools and Colorado college. After leaving college, Mr. Sumner entered the First National bank, and was teller in that institution for many years. Mr. Sumner resigned from the bank three years ago, on account of ill health. Mr. Sumner is now president of the City Savings Building and Loan association, 15 North Tejon street, which he organized in 1911. Mr. Sumner, being in the real estate security business, is familiar with real estate values in all parts of El Paso county, which with his previous business training, amply fits him for the position of county assessor.

If nominated and elected, Mr. Sumner will devote his time to the assessor's office and to the best interests of all taxpayers, and see to it that the office employees do the same.

Mr. Sumner is not a politician and has never been a candidate for office before.

PHILIP B. STEWART

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Governor of Colorado Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Philip B. Stewart was born in Middlebury, Vermont, in 1864.

His father was governor of the state of Vermont; served 10 years in congress and succeeded Senator Proctor as United States senator.

His great grandfather was a contemporary of Daniel Webster in the United States senate.

His mother was a niece of Horatio Seymour, the great war governor of the Empire state.

He graduated from Yale in the class of '86, and played baseball for four years on the Yale nine, of which he was captain in his last year.

Came to Colorado first in 1884. In 1897, moved here permanently and has expended his money, energy and initiative in constructive work in the development of the various resources of the state.

He was offered the governorship on the Republican ticket in 1904 but refused to accept because of what he believed to be the influence of machine politics in the naming of the ticket.

Is married and lives in Colorado Springs. Has one boy 17 years of age.

A profound student of economic conditions, having traveled extensively for the purpose of procuring this information.

Is careful, progressive, methodical, and with this possesses a spirit of determination well known over the entire state.

ARTHUR F. MALCOM

Of Denver, Colorado, Candidate for the Republican Nomination for State Auditor Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Arthur F. Malcom was born in Minneapolis, Minnesota, in 1870.

He received a common school education in the schools of that city.

He came to Colorado in 1894 and has resided in this state since then.

In 1894 entered the employ of the John Dry Goods company of Denver, and was with them 12 years as auditor and superintendent.

He is now, and has been for the last five years associated with Alderman A. C. Morson in the real estate and investment business.

He has been very successful in his line and is a property owner.

Is a member of the Denver Real Estate exchange and is very active in church work.

Is married and lives in Denver. Has one daughter 15 years of age.

DUNBAR F. CARPENTER

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for District Attorney Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Mr. Dunbar F. Carpenter was born in New York city in 1877. He came to Colorado Springs in 1880, and has been a resident of this city since that year.

In 1902, after graduation from the Harvard law school, he began the practice of law in Colorado Springs. He has always taken an active interest in politics, and in 1906 was the candidate of the Nonpartisan party for attorney general.

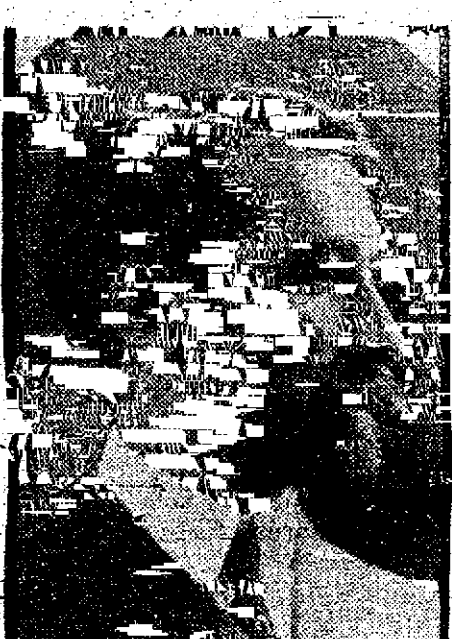

Mr. Carpenter is a director of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce, of the Sunnyside sanatorium and of the Legal Aid society; secretary of the Associated Charities and until recently, when he resigned to take an active part in politics, he was president of the Municipal Civic Service association.

He is now, and has been for the last five years associated with Alderman A. C. Morson in the real estate and investment business.

He has been very successful in his line and is a property owner.

Is a member of the Denver Real Estate exchange and is very active in church work.

Is married and lives in Denver. Has one daughter 15 years of age.

CLARENCE P. DODGE

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Congressman-at-large, Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Clarence P. Dodge was born July 26, 1877, in Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands. He attended the Westminster school, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., then went to Phillips academy, Andover, where he graduated in 1898. He graduated from the University of the city of New York immediately after graduation he came west to Colorado Springs, where he entered the real estate business. After a few months he left the real estate business and worked as a reporter on the Evening Telegraph, which newspaper he afterwards bought. Later he bought The Gazette, which paper he has held for seven years and still owns. He fought hard to bring the commission form of government to the city of Colorado Springs. He was a member of the Fifteenth general assembly and is interested in several of the state's activities, among them being chairman of the state committee of the Young Men's Christian association and president of the western conference of Y. M. C. A.'s at Estes Park.

J. B. ELLIS

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Justice of the Peace in Colorado Springs Justice Precinct, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Mr. Ellis has been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1887. Is a carpenter and contractor, and has followed this trade most of the time since coming to Colorado. Mr. Ellis was formerly engaged in the hardware and grocery business. He is a member of the Carpenters union, and has also been a member of the official board of the First Christian church for the past 24 years. Mr. Ellis is well qualified to fill the office to which he is nominated.

CURT P. GOERKE

Curt P. Goerke is a native of Colorado, and has been a resident of the Pike's Peak region for 27 years. He graduated from the Colorado Springs high school with the class of 1897, and attended Colorado college. For the past 22 years, he has been associated with his father in the photograph business at Balanced Rock, Mushroom Park. He has not held any public office, but has always been identified actively with the progressive movement in politics.

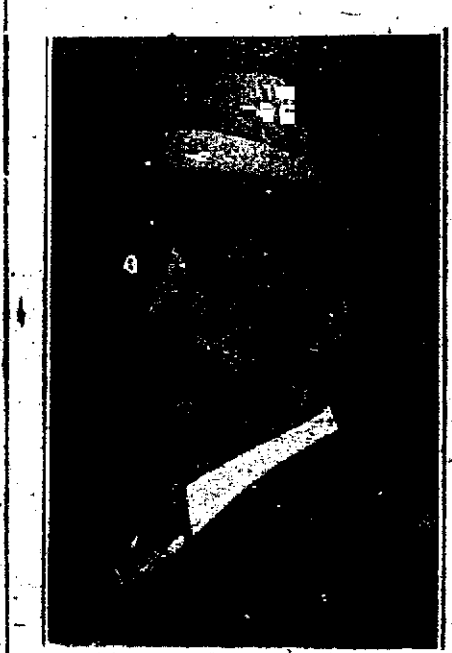

WARREN M. PERSONS

Warren M. Persons is a specialist in political economics, editorial writer on the Colorado Springs Gazette and contributor to economic journals. He was formerly on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, his alma mater, during which time he was an active supporter of Robert M. La Follette. He has done expert service for the Wisconsin Tax Commission, United States Bureau of Corporations, Census Bureau and National Monetary Commission.

THOMAS E. THOMAS

Thomas E. Thomas, who has been a resident of El Paso county for 34 years, came here from Wales in 1878. He is a mine foreman and his wide experience as a practical mine man makes him familiar with the needs of labor and mine owner alike. He is a member of El Paso lodge No. 13, A. F. and A. M.; Pike's Peak lodge 33, I. O. O. F., and lodge 208, B. P. O. E. Mr. Thomas has always been identified with the Republican party.

W. H. BANCROFT

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Sheriff of El Paso County, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Resident of El Paso county for 31 years, and been in the sign painting business in this city for 30 years.

Served with Nelson's Frontier Scouts during the Indian uprising of Victoria and his band, in Arizona and New Mexico, in 1877-79, under General Crook; also in the Ute campaign of 1887, with Troop A, after Colorado and his band, in the western part of this state. Has helped to capture some of the most notorious in this state the Star gang of outlaws, and the attempt to rob the National bank of this city, some years ago. And elected to this office, will run it absolutely upon business principles. Mr. Bancroft has been a Republican all his life, but has never held a political office.

HARRY A. SCHOLTON

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for County Commissioner of El Paso County From the Third District, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Mr. Scholton is a comparatively young man, who has made his home in Colorado Springs for the last 12 years. For the last 11 years he has been employed in the mechanical department of The Gazette, and for many years has been a member of the International Typographical union. He is a member of the Colorado Springs lodge of Elks and is one of the best known and most popular young men of the city. Mr. Scholton is a man of unquestioned integrity, and strict honesty, qualities that are well known to a large circle of friends. He is a young man of sound judgment and good business ability, and is a strong advocate of the good roads movement. If elected, will make El Paso county a good, level-headed commissioner, so education much to be desired.

DR. H. VAN BUSKIRK

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Congressman, Second District Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Dr. Van Buskirk was born at Cullerville, Ind., July 16, 1859. At the age of 16 he finished the high school and attended the State normal, with a view to fitting himself for teaching. The practice of medicine appealed to him more strongly, however, and, graduating in medicine he went to Walnut Grove, Minn., where he took up the practice.

From Walnut Grove he moved to Arlington, South Dakota, where he remained in the practice for 11 years and then settled in Rocky Ford.

Dr. Van Buskirk has been mayor of that city and is president of the Farm-

LAWSON SUMNER

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Assessor of El Paso County, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Mr. Lawson Sumner has lived at 321 North Tejon street for 39 years, being

JOINT PLEDGE

1. We pledge ourselves to uphold to the best of our ability the progressive legislation advocated in Philip B. Stewart's platform of principles given to the public on May 19.
2. Believing thoroughly in democracy as against rule by special interests, we pledge ourselves to oppose to the utmost any measure in the legislature which is in favor of the interests of the few as against the welfare of the many.
3. We promise that we will refuse all passes or favors of whatever nature offered to us by any public service corporation.
4. We hereby declare to the people of the state of Colorado, as well as to the people of our legislative district, that during our term of office, we will always vote for the candidate for United States senator in congress who has received the highest number of the people's votes for that office at the general election next preceding the election of a senator in congress, without regard to our individual preferences.

Progressive Republican Candidates

For Nomination at the Primaries, Tuesday, September 10th

L. J. STARK

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Congressman-at-Large, Subject to the Primaries September 10.

L. J. Stark was born in the state of Wisconsin in 1873. Although born on the farm he entered Lawrence university at the age of 14. He completed his collegiate course at Northwestern college, Naperville, Ill., and then entered the law school of the University of Wisconsin, completing his law course at the law school of the Denver university. Since his admission to the bar in 1899 he has devoted himself to his practice and is the senior member of the state bar of South & Martin.

He is the attorney for the Anglo-Hungarian consulate, Columbia, Denver, and this has brought him in close contact with the conditions existing among coal miners.

In Denver he has taken an active part to eliminate the election and election of judges and other public officials by corporations and their political agents.

many elections has devoted his time and efforts to the support of the Republican ticket and personal friends who were candidates for office. His political sentiments, however, have never been of the narrow and bigoted school, and his friendships extend to men of all political persuasions.

In the present primary campaign Mr. Stark is unhesitatingly declaring himself for Philip B. Stewart for governor, and expects to support the Republican ticket as nominated by the people. If elected he can be depended on to follow the straight and honest course in office, to represent faithfully the people and to be a party to nothing that will not bear the most searching scrutiny.

MILES COOK

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for County Treasurer of El Paso County, Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Mr. Cook has been a resident of El Paso county for the past five years, having been engaged in the real estate business during that time in West Colorado Springs. Mr. Cook came here from Jones county, Iowa, where he held the office of recorder for three terms. He is thoroughly familiar with county affairs, and if nominated and elected will give the office his undivided attention. Is under no obligations to anyone. Mr. Cook is thoroughly progressive in all things, that tend to the upbuilding of county and state.

O. A. BLADES

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for County Clerk and Recorder of El Paso County, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Mr. Blades has been a resident of Colorado for 32 years, and has, during the greater part of that time, been affiliated with several prominent labor organizations. For the last four years he has been clerk of Camp No. 5, Woodmen of the World.

Mr. Blades is every way a progressive man. There is not a principle advocated today for the promotion of cleaner government for which he does not stand. He has never been in politics, and the only promise he makes is the efficient management of the office to which he aspires.

intendent of schools of El Paso County from 1892 to 1894.

His friends claim for him that he is a man of strict integrity, untainted, and of a judicial temperament that fits him well for the office of judge. His experience as an educator and in the management of boys and girls especially fits him for the juvenile work, an important part of the official duties of the county judge.

Mr. Jackson is a Progressive Republican and is secretary of the Colorado City Republican club, which was the first organization in the state to ask Mr. Stewart to become a candidate for the office of governor.

LEONARD JACKSON

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Chroner of El Paso County, Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Mr. Jackson is one of the real pioneers, having walked into El Paso county in 1859. He went to work on the old Irving ranch where he remained for about a year. He left the ranch in 1870 to try his luck in the mines at Breckenridge, but returned to Colorado Springs a little later. He was appointed sheriff in 1882 by Walter A. Smith and then served under Sheriff Dana for six years. In 1887 he was elected sheriff and served in that capacity until 1892. He then went to Cripple Creek and located the Sheriff claim which produced some very rich ore in the early days of the camp. For the past few years he has been employed by the Dorn Tire and Coffee company. Two years ago he was elected coroner which position he now holds.

O. E. COLLINS

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for County Judge of El Paso County, Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Mr. Collins is a native of Kansas, was graduated from the Kansas Wesleyan university at Salina, Kansas. Came to Colorado 18 years ago and taught school several years. Was principal of school at Fountain, this county, in 1896, going from there to Pueblo High school; later accepted a position in the city schools in Colorado Springs; became secretary of the board of education here; resigned to complete his legal education at the Denver law school. After admission to the bar in 1904 entered the law offices of Wolcott, Vail and Waterman, at Denver. Later in the same year he returned to Colorado Springs and entered the offices of Hall, Babbitt and Thayer. Was deputy district attorney under C. C. Hamlin in 1906. He was elected a member of the lower house of the Sixteenth general assembly where he had the honor of being chairman of the judiciary committee. He was named by Hon. Ben Griffith, present attorney general, as state inheritance tax appraiser for the state inheritance tax, which covers 24 counties, and has made a marked success in that work.

D. H. BENNETT

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for County Commissioner, From the Third District, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

D. H. Bennett, a resident of El Paso county for 19 years, except for two years spent on western slope, and a taxpayer during all the time of residence here, hereby announces his candidacy for nomination for the office of county commissioner of Third district, subject to the will of the voters at the primary to be held on September 10.

Mr. Bennett states that, if nominated and elected, he will give to the people his very best efforts, and guarantee an honest, efficient and economical administration of this office.

JOSEPH P. JACKSON

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for County Judge of El Paso County, Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Joseph P. Jackson of Colorado City, is a graduate of Drake university of Des Moines, Iowa, and of the law department of the Iowa State university. In 1900, he received the degree of A. M. from Columbia university, of New York city, for post-graduate work in that institution.

He practiced law at Oskaloosa, Iowa, for three years before coming to Colorado, and has been practicing law at Colorado City for the last 10 years, serving as city attorney for four years of that time.

He served one term as county super-

W. H. GOWDY

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Justice of the Peace in Colorado Springs Precinct, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Mr. Gowdy came to Colorado 25 years ago, was a resident of the Cripple Creek district for 18 years. Was the first justice of the peace in Cripple Creek, and in 1907 was appointed master of the Cripple Creek board of trade.

born of the Cripple Creek board of trade in 1907. His father has present office of justice of the peace in Colorado Springs precinct for the past two years, and has tried to keep all people alike, regardless of birth or standing. Mr. Gowdy is 36 years of age, was born in Adams county, Ohio, and was a student of Monmouth college up to the sophomore year.

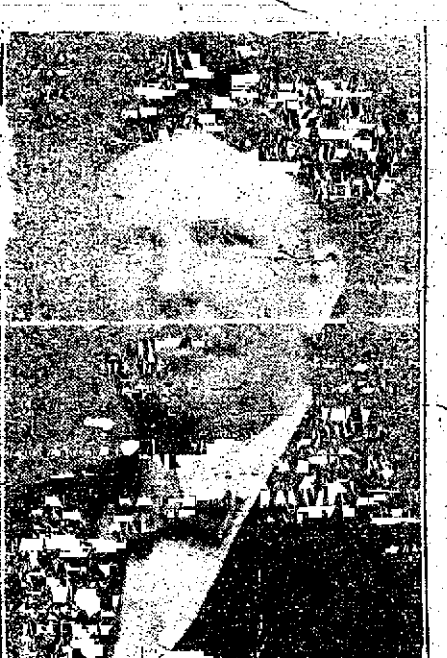

THOMAS E. SMALL

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Constable, Colorado Springs Precinct, Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Mr. Small has been a resident of Colorado Springs for six years, during which time he has been engaged in the real estate business. He was born and raised in England, Illinois, and for 25 years prior to his removal to this city was in the service of the United States Express company from which service he resigned to bring his family to Colorado.

Mr. Small believes in giving every one a square deal, and if elected will to the best of his ability, perform the duties of the office properly and promptly.

F. E. TORBIT

F. E. Torbit of Fountain, Colo., Progressive Republican Candidate for the Nomination to the Office of County Commissioner, Second District, in the September 10 Primary.

Is an old resident of the county, having been in the mercantile business in Fountain for more than 14 years. He is at present a member of the state legislature from El Paso county and has made good, having been especially active on behalf of the retail merchants of the state.

He is a man of good business ability and is one of the heaviest taxpayers in the Fountain district. Having made a success of his own business he is a safe man to entrust with the affairs of the county.

Mr. Torbit is an active member of the Retail Merchants association of Colorado. He solicits your support.

CHINESE BLACK-WOOD FURNITURE

From Consular Report

Practically all this furniture even planned table tops and the most intricate and delicate fittings are hand-made. Furniture is planned in parts which generally dovetail together in order to form a network of nails, and the various parts are slotted for the corner. The larger amounts of the fourth floor and work with various knives, chisels and other tools of native workmanship, but with no other vice or bench than his legs, toes and the earth floor, or in exceptional cases, a log combination of seat and bench. Work men in these shops are practically bred to the business. An apprentice serves three years with no other pay than his rice. He then earns perhaps $10 silver or $150 gold per month for several years. A full-fledged carver will ordinarily receive $20 silver or $250 gold per month.

When carved, the article is usually stained a uniform black by an alum preparation, then waxed with a preparation of wax and blacking and polished, or sometimes finished with a special preparation of Nipco varnish. Foreign oils and varnishes are sometimes used for special purposes, but as a rule only native materials are employed. Of late a demand has grown for the furniture in natural dark red of the wood, furniture nearer real and likely to become more popular as it becomes better known. A strong demand is growing for furniture manufactured from this wood on plainer lines and to some extent for sections and chairs in Chinese styles. The popularity of the furniture on the whole seems to be increasing, although there has been no material change in average volume of shipments. The high cost of this furniture in the United States by the time freight and duty are paid seems to be the chief factor against its more general use.

Seeing that the people are rather slow in discarding their prejudices, Mr. Chen, who, through the efforts of the local people, has been able to secure a permanent harbor for the people, where people are not free of charge.

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES

For Nomination at the Primaries Tuesday, September 10th

MERLE D. VINCENT

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for United States Senator Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Merle D. Vincent of Paoia, Colorado, was the only Republican member of the state senate to vote against Mr. Duggenheim as candidate for United States senator. For this he was maligned, abused and threatened with every weapon peculiar to politics.

Mr. Vincent is an attorney, highly educated and possesses a pleasing appearance. He is a profound student of political economy. He is a pioneer in the progressive movement in Colorado.

Mr. Vincent is in the broadest sense a self-made man. He was a cowboy in northern Colorado and a miner in Cripple Creek. By the application of brain and brawn he has acquired his education, and by a constant and unwavering loyalty to honest principles has made himself one of the clearest characters in Colorado.

CLARENCE P. DODGE

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Congressman-at-large, Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Clarence P. Dodge was born July 26, 1877, in Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands. He attended the Westminster school, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., then went to Phillips academy, Andover, where he graduated in 1895. He graduated from Yale university in the class of '99. Immediately after graduation he came west to Colorado Springs, where he entered the real estate business. After a few months he left the real estate business and worked as a reporter on the Brexler Telegraph, which newspaper he afterwards bought. Later he bought the Gazette, which paper he has held for seven years and still owns. He fought hard to bring the commission form of government to this city of Colorado Springs. He was a member of the fifteenth general assembly and is interested in several of the state's activities, among them being chairman of the state committee of the Young Men's Christian association and president of the western conference of Y. M. C. A.'s at Estes Park.

DR. H. VAN BUSKIRK

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Congressman, Second District Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Dr. Van Buskirk was born at Caryville, Ind., July 15, 1859. At the age of 16 he finished the high school and attended the State normal, with a view to fitting himself for teaching. The practice of medicine appealed to him more strongly, however, and, graduating in medicine he went to Walnut Grove, Minn., where he took up the practice.

From Walnut Grove he moved to Arlington, South Dakota, where he remained in the practice for 11 years, and then settled in Rocky Ford.

Dr. Van Buskirk has been mayor of that city and is president of the Farmers and Merchants bank, a position he has held for 12 years.

Dr. Van Buskirk is an ideal type of the successful man and a citizen of whom Rocky Ford is justly proud.

R. D. REES

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court of Colorado, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

The subject of this sketch was raised in eastern Kansas, and will be of the age of 49 years on January 17, 1912.

His father was engaged in farming and stock raising and was one of the pioneers of Kansas, arriving there before the advent of the railroad.

Mr. Rees spent his boyhood days on the farm. He attended school at Florence, Marion county, Kansas, and later graduated from the Kansas Normal school in 1885.

Like a great many others, he secured his start by teaching school, and was one of the professors at the Kansas Normal Institute during the years 1886 and 1887. Meanwhile, and after that time, he read law in the office of Judge Frank Foster, since chief justice of the Kansas supreme court.

Mr. Rees was admitted to practice in all the courts of Kansas in the year 1889, and for a time practiced law at Cottonwood Falls, Kan. He came to Denver on March 10, 1890. During that month he was admitted to practice in the supreme court of the state of Colorado, and shortly thereafter was admitted to practice in the United States courts.

He has been engaged continuously in the practice of law ever since his admission to the bar.

Mr. Rees has always been an ardent, consistent advocate of a pure, fair and impartial judiciary, and with the exception of his efforts in that respect, he has never been identified heretofore with politics.

J. B. ELLIS

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Justice of the Peace in Colorado Springs Justice Precinct, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Mr. Ellis has been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1887, is a carpenter and contractor, and has followed this trade most of the time since coming to Colorado. Mr. Ellis was formerly engaged in the hardware and grocery business. He is a member of the Carpenters union, and has also been a member of the official board of the First Christian church for the past 24 years. Mr. Ellis is well qualified to fill the office to which he aspires.

LAWSON SUMNER

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Assessor of El Paso County, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Mr. Lawson Sumner has lived at 521 North Tejon street for 39 years, being

BENAMIN F. GRIFFITH

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Attorney General Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Attorney General Ben Griffith is at the present time one of the popular young men in Colorado. He is a graduate of Colorado college, formerly a star football player, an excellent attorney and a man who has made a record of which Republicans are proud.

His former home was in Canon City, Colorado. Later he moved to Montrose and then to Grand Junction, where the law firm with which he is connected has a large practice. Mr. Griffith, on account of his popularity, was elected attorney general two years ago by a large majority against the figures of a Democratic year.

During his administration he has waged legal war against the trusts which seek to control the prices of commodities produced by the farmers and the miners and laboring classes. Two or three suits are pending in court at the present time against organizations of this character and he states that if he is reelected he will continue vigorous prosecution of those who take advantage of the laws as now exist and attempt to lessen the profit honestly earned by the producer.

one of the pioneers of the Pikes Peak region. Mr. Sumner was educated in Colorado Springs, attending the public schools and Colorado college. After leaving college, Mr. Sumner entered the First National bank, and was teller in that institution for many years. Mr. Sumner resigned from the bank three years ago, on account of ill health. Mr. Sumner is now president of the City Savings Building and Loan association, 15 North Tejon street, which he organized in 1911. Mr. Sumner, being in the real estate security business, is familiar with real estate values in all parts of El Paso county, which, with his previous business training, amply fits him for the position of county assessor.

If nominated and elected, Mr. Sumner will devote his time to the assessor's office and to the best interests of all taxpayers, and see to it that the office employees do the same.

Mr. Sumner is not a politician and has never been a candidate for office before.

PHILIP B. STEWART

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Governor of Colorado Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Philip B. Stewart was born in Middlebury, Vermont, in 1864.

His father was governor of the state of Vermont; served 10 years in congress and succeeded Senator Fletcher as United States senator.

His great grandfather was a contemporary of Daniel Webster in the United States senate.

His mother was a niece of Horatio Seymour, the great war governor of the Empire state.

He graduated from Yale in the class of '86, and played baseball for four

ARTHUR J. YEOMANS

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for County Superintendent of Schools, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Mr. Yeomans is now entering his eighth year as instructor of manual training in the Colorado Springs schools. His experience as a teacher extends over a period of 18 years, and include actual work in rural, village and city schools. He considers that his familiarity with the conditions in rural and village schools is a very desirable qualification for a position which has to do almost entirely with such schools.

years on the Yale line, of which he was captain in his last year.

Came to Colorado in 1884. In 1887, moved here permanently and has expended his money, energy and influence in constructive work in the development of the various resources of the state.

He was offered the governorship on the Republican ticket in 1904 but refused to accept because of what he believed to be the influence of machine politics in the naming of the ticket.

Is married and lives in Colorado Springs. Has one boy 17 years of age.

A profound student of economic conditions, having traveled extensively for the purpose of procuring this information.

Is careful, progressive, methodical, and with this possesses a spirit of determination well known over the entire state.

ARTHUR F. MALCOM

Of Denver, Colorado, Candidate for the Republican Nomination for State Auditor, Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Arthur F. Malcom was born in Minneapolis, Minnesota, in 1870.

He received a common school education in the schools of that city.

He came to Colorado in 1894 and has resided in this state since then.

In 1894 entered the employ of the Jouslin Dry Goods company of Denver, and was with them 13 years as auditor and superintendent.

He is now, and has been for the last five years, associated with Alderman A. C. Monson in the real estate and investment business.

He has been very successful in his line and is a property owner.

Is a member of the Denver Real Estate exchange and is very active in church work.

Is married and lives in Denver. Has one daughter 15 years of age.

OSCAR DAVID CASS, JR.

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for State Treasurer, Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Mr. Cass was born June 30, 1881. He attended the public schools of Denver, including the East Denver High school and then spent one year in the Lawrenceville school, Lawrenceville, New Jersey. He was for a time a student at Princeton university, but only took part of the course, returning to attend to the business affairs of the family.

The Bishop-Cass Investment company was incorporated and Mr. Cass made president, which position he holds at the present time.

He has been the active head of the playground work of Denver and is at the present time treasurer of the Denver Playground association.

Mr. Cass is at present president of the Denver Real Estate exchange. He is also a director of the Denver chamber of commerce. He is one of the leading men in the commercial life of Denver and the state of Colorado.

Mr. Cass, up to last spring, took very little interest in Denver politics. However, at that time he entered the fight for the Republican nomination for mayor. He made a strong fight within the party, representing the element who are determined to eliminate the corrupt machine from the control of the party.

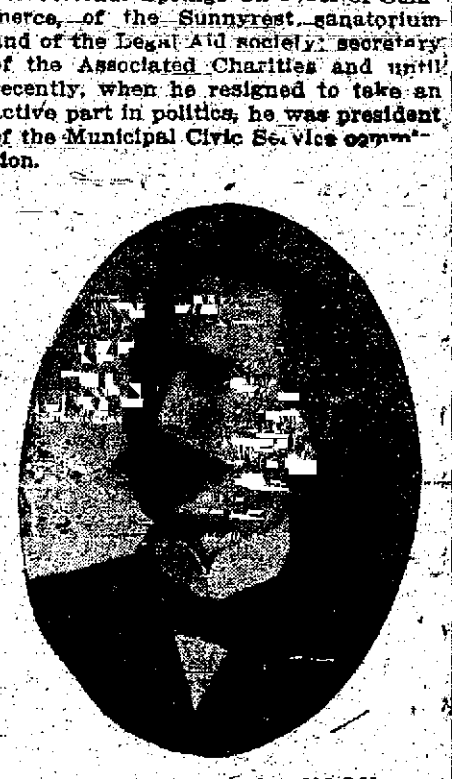

DUNBAR F. CARPENTER

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for District Attorney Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Mr. Dunbar F. Carpenter was born in New York City in 1877. He came to Colorado Springs in 1880, and has been a resident of this city since that year. In 1903, after graduation from the Harvard law school, he began the practice of law in Colorado Springs. He has always taken an active interest in politics, and in 1906 was the candidate of the Nonpartisan party for city attorney.

Mr. Carpenter is a director of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce, of the Sunnyside sanatorium, and of the Deaf and Dumb society, secretary of the Associated Charities and until recently, when he resigned to take an active part in politics, he was president of the Municipal Civic Service commission.

WILLIAM C. ROBINSON

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for State Senator From El Paso County, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Mr. Robinson has always been a Republican, and firmly believes in the fundamental principles of that party, but has always put citizenship above partisanship. Concerning public officers and party management, he believes that

He Serves His Party Best Who Serves His Country Best.

Good officers and good party management are a credit to their party, and make that party strong with the people. Judge Robinson has always been opposed to party bosses, and they have always opposed him. The opposition is entirely mutual.

If elected state senator, he will not vote for Mr. Guggenheim for United States senator; he will not accept railroad passes, street car passes, or telephone or telegraph franks; and he will consider himself to be the agent and employee of the electors of the district.

HARRY A. SCHOLTON

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for County Commissioner of El Paso County, From the Third District, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Mr. Scholton is a comparatively young man who has made his home in Colorado Springs for the last 12 years. For the last 11 years he has been employed in the mechanical department of The Gazette, and, for many years, has been a member of the International Typographical union. He is a member of the Colorado Springs lodge of Elks and is one of the best known and most popular young men of the city. Mr. Scholton is a man of unquestioned integrity and strict honesty, qualities that are well known to a large circle of friends. He is a young man of sound judgment, good business ability, and is a strong advocate of the good roads movement. If elected, will make El Paso county a good, level-headed commissioner, conservation much to be desired.

C. A. POLLEN

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for County Commissioner from the Third District Subject to the Primaries September 10.

Mr. Pollen was born at Lake Geneva, Wis., in 1859, moving to Lockport, N. Y., when one year old. He came to Colorado Springs in April, 1881, when he accepted a position with the D. & R. G. Ry. as ticket clerk and operator. In 1883 he was appointed agent for the D. & R. G. Ry. at Manitou which position he held until elected county treasurer in 1894, serving three terms in that office. Mr. Pollen is well known throughout the county and state, and is a prominent business man, and is owner of the Hotel Navajo at Manitou, Colorado.

W. H. BANCROFT

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Sheriff of El Paso County, Subject to the Primaries, September 10.

Resident of El Paso county for 31 years, and been in the sign painting business in this city for 30 years.

Served with Nelson's Frontier Scouts during the Indian uprising of Victoria and his band, in Arizona and New Mexico, in 1877-79, under General Crook; also in the Ute campaign of 1887, with Troop A, after Colorow and his band, in the western part of this state. Has helped to capture some of the worst outlaws in this state, the Star-gang of outlaws, and the attempt to rob the National bank of this city, some years ago. And if elected to this office, will run it absolutely upon business principles. Mr. Bancroft has been a Republican all his life, but has never held a political office.

THOMAS E. THOMAS

Thomas E. Thomas, who has been a resident of El Paso county for 24 years, came here from Wales in 1878. He is a mine foreman and his wide experience as a practical mine man makes him familiar with the needs of labor and mine owner alike. He is a member of El Paso lodge No. 13, I. O. O. F., and lodge 308, B. P. O. E. Mr. Thomas has always been identified with the Republican party.

WARREN M. PERSONS

Warren M. Persons is a specialist in political economics, editorial writer on the Colorado Springs Gazette and contributor to economic journals. He was formerly on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, his alma mater, during which time he was an active supporter of Robert M. La Follette. He has done expert service for the Wisconsin Tax Commission, United States Bureau of Corporations, Census Bureau and National Monetary Commission.

CURT P. GOERKE

Curt P. Goerke is a native of Colorado and has been a resident of the Pikes Peak region for 27 years. He graduated from the Colorado Springs high school with the class of 1897, and attended Colorado college. For the past 22 years, he has been associated with his father in the photograph business at Palencia Rock, Mushroom Park. He has not held any public office, but has always been identified actively with the progressive movement in politics.

JOINT PLEDGE

1. We pledge ourselves to uphold to the best of our ability the progressive legislation advocated in Philip B. Stewart's platform of principles given to the public on May 19.
2. Believing thoroughly in democracy as against rule by special interests, we pledge ourselves to oppose to the utmost any measure in the legislature which is in favor of the interests of the few as against the welfare of the many.
3. We promise that we will refuse all passes or franks of whatever nature offered to us by any public service corporation.
4. We hereby declare to the people of the state of Colorado, as well as to the people of our legislative district, that during our term of office, we will always vote for the candidate for United States senator in congress who has received the highest number of the people's votes for that office at the general election next preceding the election of a senator in congress, without regard to our individual preferences.

THE INDIAN JUTT BEFORE BREAKING CAMP AT MOUNTAIN VALLEY

With enough real metropolitan experience to last them many moons to come, the 75 Ute Indians under the care of Buckskin Charley, left for their homes in the southern Colorado agency Friday evening, after they had enjoyed to the utmost the treat of their lives during the Shan Kive. What a satisfied band of Indians they were, and what a collection of souvenirs they took with them! This original American is a great shopper when he has access to the right kind of stores, and this band of Utes was not an exception. The redmen bought neckties, jewelry, dress goods, little personal decorations of all kinds—and they bought regardless of price, so long as it was not more than the money at hand. Of course it made little difference what the article was, so long as it glittered in metal effects or almost talked in color effects.

That the Indians were pleased with their visit here, need not be said, for they were extremely pleased, their pleasure was of the ultra variety. W. S. Reynolds and Ted Howell, who represented Chairman Holland in caring for the Indians, handled every little detail with such care that there was nothing the visitors could wish for, excepting possibly "fire water," this fluid which in the early days caused outbreaks and bloodshed when the Indians drank even a little. A number of the older men who had tasted the liquid fire and had felt its stimulating effects, begged hard for "the little fire water." But they got nothing to stimulate them except applause of enthusiastic spectators who watched their entertainment, and this was stimulant enough for they were well received.

COUNTY TREASURER FRANCIS M. McMAHON

Mr. McMahon is the Republican Candidate for Re-election to the Office of County Treasurer.

Mr. McMahon's ability and experience as a certified public accountant, and as former secretary of the Colorado Title and Trust company, singularly fitted him for the office to which he was elected two years ago.

The office of county treasurer is now handling more than ONE MILLION DOLLARS PER YEAR, and the proper distribution of these moneys into many funds, calls for a knowledge of the requirements governing such matters. Mr. McMahon has made a general study of accounting as applied to municipal and county offices, and since he took charge, he has brought the records and general efficiency of the office to such a high standard that the forms in use have been adopted by the state auditor as a model for many of the other counties in the state.

Mr. McMahon has been a resident of Colorado Springs for the past 14 years, and during that time has been continuously identified with the business interests of this city, and is especially familiar with county and city financial matters.

The large vote cast for Mr. McMahon at the last election was a testimonial of the confidence and esteem in which he was held by the citizens of El Paso county.

The accounts of the county treasurer were examined a short time ago, and the following extract from the report submitted is significant: "The office is in the customary satisfactory condition due to the executive ability and efficiency of those in charge."

If efficiency and capability are qualities which are to be considered by the voters, Mr. McMahon solicits your support at the primaries.

These men who were here before the whites. The government owes the Utes something less than $2,500,000, and this will be given to them shortly, according to an appropriation made by an act of congress last week, before they adjourned.

Thursday night Buckskin Charley addressed his people, and the white hosts who were at the bandstand in Manitou. He expressed gratitude for himself and the tribe he represented, and said they enjoyed the entertainment offered by Colorado Springs as much as it was possible for them to enjoy anything. He said that the land surrounding Manitou, formerly belonged to his people, but that they were glad it had been turned over to the whites, because they had improved the roads and agricultural parts and had built so many attractive houses.

The Indians were loath to leave the city of sunshine, and said they hoped to come again next year.

Midland Band Concert

The following programs have been announced for the concerts by the Midland band at Stratton park this afternoon and evening:

The program includes addresses, songs and athletic events, as follows: Morning, 10 o'clock. Song by the group. Song, "America," by the Bible school. Address of Welcome, H. R. Ford. Address, The Rev. Mr. Frost. Ball game, The West Side, "Pikes Peak Busters" vs. The East Side, "Pikes Peak Busters."

Afternoon, 2 o'clock. Relay bicycle race, Boys 12 to 20. Relay dash, Men, 20 and over. Nail driving contest—The men vs. the women. (The men to play left-handed.) Peanut race—Girls, 12 and under. Egg race—Boys, 12 and under. Ball game, Girls 12 to 20, vs. boys 12 to 20. (The boys to play left-handed and wear skirts.) Ball game—Girls, 12 to 15, vs. boys 12 to 15. (The boys to play left-handed and wear skirts.)

Police keep city clean during carnival week. Unlike most affairs of a similar nature, the carnival held here was entirely moral in every way. Not a single "strong arm" man showed up, and the cry of "Watch the little boys" was conspicuous by its absence. Informal police and plain clothes men combed out the city thoroughly, holding every eye who might be a crook, and the criminal week may be ascribed to this more than to any other cause.

A small officer watch was found on the Colorado college campus after the broncho busting exhibition, and is being held by the police for identification.

AT THE Y. M. C. A.

W. W. Milton, the preacher-operator of Texas, will address the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 8:30 o'clock this afternoon.

BIG MAGAZINE PICTURE NEARBY BEAUTY SPOTS

The Pike's Peak region recently has secured some invaluable publicity in magazines of national circulation. In the August 1 issue of Country Life in America, as one of a series of articles on American scenery, Enos A. Mills tells of the wonder and beauties of the Rocky mountains. The article is illustrated with a number of pictures of mountain scenery, and included in the set are photos of Pike's Peak, taken from the top of Cameron's Cone, the Gateway to the Garden of the Gods, and snow banks near Windy Point.

The current issue of Leslie's Weekly devotes the inside back cover to a series of five pictures illustrative of western scenery. One of the views shows Ute Pass, with two automobiles filled with tourists, in the foreground, and carries a caption telling that the Ute Pass road, just above Manitou, is one of the finest automobile roads in the west, forming a portion of the Lincoln transcontinental highway.

Recently the Dallas News carried a large picture of the Pike's Peak picnic at Manitou, with an extensive story containing the names of many of those who participated in the exercise at Manitou park, August 12.

These pictures were all furnished by the publicity bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.

GIVES COSTUME DINNER

Tuesday evening Mrs. Margaret Overbeck of Stratton park, assisted by Mrs. Davies and Mrs. Spencer, entertained seven couples of young people from Colorado Springs and Stratton park at dinner. The guests came in costume and after dinner they motored to town and attended the Shan Kive entertainments. Those present were: Mildred Gates, Frances Schneider, Nellie Webber, Elizabeth Weaver, Elizabeth Fuzard, Marjorie Spencer, Gladys Overbeck, George Dickenson, Mick Holden, Benick Greese, Fred Kampf, Fred Oldfield, Henry Brown and George Watson.

Burke Potter

Candidate for the General Assembly on the Republican Ticket.

Burke Potter was born on a farm in eastern Illinois in January, 1864, and came to Colorado in March, 1888, and located on a ranch near Monument and has been a resident and farmer of the rainbelt of El Paso county ever since. Mr. Potter has been a Republican at all times, beginning with the election of 1876. If Mr. Potter is nominated and elected he will give his best effort for good and wholesome laws and for a clean and economical government, and for laws for the improvement of live stock upon the farms. As the agricultural products of this county roll about one-fifth or 20 per cent of the total vote of the county and as this county now has three members of the house and two members of the senate, are not the agricultural products of this county, entitled to one member of the house?

HOLDERS OF LOCK BOXES MAY GET MAIL TODAY

A general misunderstanding exists regarding the Sunday closing at the postoffice. Beginning today, the postoffice will discontinue handling all mail except that marked special delivery. Special delivery letters will be delivered as usual. The office will not be locked, so that letters, packages and papers may be mailed and those renting lock boxes may secure their mail. Just before 12 o'clock last night, the mail was sorted, and that addressed to the various boxes in the postoffice was placed therein. This procedure will be followed every Saturday night.

MISS MINNIE L. McCALL

Miss Minnie L. McCall, candidate for nomination to the office of county superintendent of schools on the Republican ticket, is regarded by capable judges as one of the foremost teachers in the schools of Colorado Springs, and in the state of Colorado.

After ample normal school training, she began her career as an educator in the country schools of Iowa, whence she came to Colorado Springs 16 years ago, and has been engaged in grade school work continuously since.

She has instructed in a number of the largest institute districts of Colorado, and in places has been recognized for work in response to the call of country teachers, who found her lectures especially helpful and inspiring. The state board of examiners issued her a state diploma in recognition of her "eminently service in the cause of education," the highest honor possible to confer in the state of Colorado.

Miss McCall earnestly solicits the support of all Republican voters, and is elected, pledges faithful and capable service, and the greatest economy consistent with the most efficient administration of the schools of El Paso county.

News of Local Courts

TWO SUITS FILED

In connection with the recent auction sale of Lynn S. Atkinson's property, two suits have been filed against Atkinson in the district court, both for alleged breach of contract. The first is brought by W. S. Mitchell for $102.50 in money paid and $5,000 damages, a total of $5,102.50. The second is brought by the International Realty company, for $410 in money paid and $2,500 damages, a total of $2,910.

A Herbert Bragg, who had been held at the county jail here, charged with passing worthless checks, was released Friday on order of the district attorney. He was rearrested the same evening, however, in Pueblo, charged with beating a board bill at the Antlers hotel in this city, and was brought back here last night by Deputy Sheriff Charles Birdsell. Several forgery charges also are to be lodged against him, it is said.

Charles Rothwell, 46 years old, said to be from Fort Worth, Tex., was arrested by the police yesterday for frightening a 10-year-old girl.

Mike Miller was arrested by the police yesterday, charged with the theft of $85 from the money drawer of Collins Brothers, at the Modern Woodmen home. He is lodged in the county jail and will have a hearing in Justice Dunnington's court Thursday. The complaint was sworn to by Henry Gottgetreu.

Funeral and Burial

The funeral of Mrs. H. H. Mitchell was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock from Grace Episcopal church. The body was taken to Philadelphia, for interment.

Apache Slang Paris Fad

From the New York Times. PARIS.—The slang of the Paris Apaches is the latest fad taken up in society circles here. Not only French people, but also foreigners, of the fashionable set here, are now vying with each other in picking up the large stock of words and phrases or argot spoken on fortifications and in the outer slums.

Slang dictionaries are sold to tourists at the boulevard hotels, and society women are taking lessons in argot, for which, of course, high fees are charged by the instructors.

Several American women are among those taking lessons, and it is believed to be one of them who originated the idea. The fad is thought to have arisen in consequence of the intense interest taken in the Paris underworld through the exploits of the motor bandits.

CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR UPON THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

County Assessor Frank A. Perkins is a Candidate for Re-election on the Republican Ticket.

That he will be given a second term there is little doubt, for it is the custom in El Paso county as well as all others throughout the state to re-nominate an office holder with a second term if

News of Local Courts

TWO SUITS FILED

In connection with the recent auction sale of Lynn S. Atkinson's property, two suits have been filed against Atkinson in the district court, both for alleged breach of contract. The first is brought by W. S. Mitchell for $102.50 in money paid and $5,000 damages, a total of $5,102.50. The second is brought by the International Realty company, for $410 in money paid and $2,500 damages, a total of $2,910.

A Herbert Bragg, who had been held at the county jail here, charged with passing worthless checks, was released Friday on order of the district attorney. He was rearrested the same evening, however, in Pueblo, charged with beating a board bill at the Antlers hotel in this city, and was brought back here last night by Deputy Sheriff Charles Birdsell. Several forgery charges also are to be lodged against him, it is said.

Charles Rothwell, 46 years old, said to be from Fort Worth, Tex., was arrested by the police yesterday for frightening a 10-year-old girl.

Mike Miller was arrested by the police yesterday, charged with the theft of $85 from the money drawer of Collins Brothers, at the Modern Woodmen home. He is lodged in the county jail and will have a hearing in Justice Dunnington's court Thursday. The complaint was sworn to by Henry Gottgetreu.

Funeral and Burial

The funeral of Mrs. H. H. Mitchell was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock from Grace Episcopal church. The body was taken to Philadelphia, for interment.

Apache Slang Paris Fad

From the New York Times. PARIS.—The slang of the Paris Apaches is the latest fad taken up in society circles here. Not only French people, but also foreigners, of the fashionable set here, are now vying with each other in picking up the large stock of words and phrases or argot spoken on fortifications and in the outer slums.

Slang dictionaries are sold to tourists at the boulevard hotels, and society women are taking lessons in argot, for which, of course, high fees are charged by the instructors.

Several American women are among those taking lessons, and it is believed to be one of them who originated the idea. The fad is thought to have arisen in consequence of the intense interest taken in the Paris underworld through the exploits of the motor bandits.

his first has been satisfactory to the taxpayers. The books in the assessor's office are open for inspection at any time. They tell their own story. Not only do they show that Mr. Perkins has an expert knowledge of property values, but that the office since he assumed charge has done 10 per cent more business than ever before in the same length of time, and without additional cost to the county. This is one of the chief reasons that practically all of the property owners of the county, both Democratic and Republican, are behind Mr. Perkins in this campaign and are urging his reelection.

Mr. Perkins has lived in El Paso county 34 years. As a business man he has taken a prominent part in the development of the Pike's Peak region, has been identified with all movements for its upbuilding and advancement.

ADVANCES NEW THEORY AS TO ROUSSEAU'S DEATH

By GEORGE DUFRESNE.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—More than a month ago was celebrated in Paris, notwithstanding several lively incidents, the bicentenary of Rousseau's birth. Now comes Dr. Raspail with a new theory of his death, which has made some good Republicans very angry. One does not quite see why. Rousseau, as will be remembered, died at Ermenville, in a cottage granted him by a rich admirer, M. de Girard. There was some talk of suicide, but it was generally agreed that Rousseau succumbed to a stroke of apoplexy. Dr. Raspail, after a careful examination of the death-mask taken by Houdon, states it as his belief that Rousseau was murdered. He finds three distinct wounds, one slight, at the corner of the right eye, a second, a little deeper on the left cheek, near the nostril and a third on the forehead which crushed the skull. This last wound, in the opinion of Dr. Raspail, was sufficient to cause death. These injuries he holds to have been caused by a blunt instrument, so the hypothesis of suicide is impossible. Rousseau, then, was murdered, but by whom? By Therese Levasseur, is the answer of Dr. Raspail. That woman, it will be remembered, was the mistress and later, it is supposed the wife of Rousseau. She was with him at Ermenville when he died and it is said that he had for some time before suspected her of too great fondness for one of M. Girard's grooms.

THIRD WITNESS IS NOW MISSING

MEANT MUCH TO STATE IN ROSENTHAL CASE

Believe Influences Being Exerted to Get Witnesses Away Before Trial

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Another witness for the state in the Rosenthal murder case has mysteriously disappeared, according to information obtained today at the office of District Attorney Whitman. The man's identity was not revealed, but the gravity of his testimony to the prosecution is of such importance that detectives were dispatched tonight to Philadelphia, in a tin that he had gone there, with instructions to bring him back if they locate him. The man has been missing for several days, and his absence appears to have caused considerable anxiety at the district attorney's office, as he is said to be in a position to give sensational evidence bearing upon the alleged gambling graft operations of Lieut. Charles Becker, accused of instigating the murder of William Z. Foster.

Had Been Kept in Background.

The witness reported missing tonight is said to have been one whom the district attorney has been keeping in the background to spring as a surprise at the trial of Becker, as he has not testified before the grand jury. His testimony will help to establish a motive, it was said, for the killing of Rosenthal in connection with Becker.

FQUITABE SOCIETY WILL LEND MONEY COLO. LANDS

DENVER, Aug. 31.—The Equitable Life Assurance society will shortly initiate the practice of lending money on farm lands in Colorado. The system is already in vogue in Minnesota and Iowa and is said to have proved unexpectedly satisfactory to the company.

Leon O. Fisher, third vice president and auditor of the Equitable, and John P. Kernan, director, were in Denver Wednesday of this week, and while here were in consultation with W. W. Booth, general agent of the society in Denver. As a result of their conference and of Booth's representation of farming and crop conditions throughout the state, Fisher and Kernan went Thursday to the Arkansas valley to inspect the holdings of the society there and to investigate prospects for making profitable loans.

"We believe it is better to make 100 loans of $1,000 each to farmers than to lend $100,000 to erect a city building," said Booth last night. "The farmers can be depended upon to produce something and this adds to the wealth of the country. We want to hasten the date of the inauguration of the new policy in Colorado, but it is in the hands of the finance committee of the society in New York. I have no doubt the innovation will be made effective in a short time."

It is difficult to determine the real value of Colorado land, especially in the irrigated districts. Water rights that attach to some land make it vastly more valuable than other land naturally of the same character. That is a condition not met with in Minnesota and Iowa and is bound to make the matter of valuations more or less difficult.

Kernan and Fisher will not return to Denver but will go east from the Arkansas valley by way of Kansas and Chicago. Kernan, who is a Democrat, is mentioned as a United States senatorial possibility in New York. He was railroad commissioner under Cleveland.

For traveling salesmen there has been invented a valve with folding sides and legs with which it may be converted into a table.

YEARLY WASTE OF COAL IS IMMENSE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—A new prediction of coal-waste from the United States in the last year, 250,000,000 tons, were either wasted or left under ground probably unfit for future use, according to a statement today by Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, director of the United States bureau of mines.

In addition to this startling waste, Dr. Holmes declares that more of coal, through faulty methods, derived only about 10 per cent of the energy of coal used. Furthermore, he added, the loss by waste in other minerals, such as zinc, nitrogen, potash, sulphur and natural gas would reach into the hundreds of millions of dollars annually. Officials of the bureau, however, are hopeful for strides toward reform.

PRESIDENT'S HISTORIC OLD COTTONWOOD TREE IS DEAD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—An historic old cottonwood tree that had adorned the president's front yard—the north lawn of the White house—since it was planted in 1823 by President Andrew Jackson and several of his cabinet officers, was removed today, having succumbed from unknown causes.

It was presented to President Jackson by Creek Indian Chief Alapata just before the signing of the treaty by which the Creek Nation was removed from Florida. An Indian prophecy connected with the tree was that as long as it should live its shade would typify the protection and good will which the mysterious "visible God" of the Creek Indians would spread upon the white government.

Three Nicaraguan Towns Are Nearing Starvation

MANAGUA, NICARAGUA, Aug. 30.—(Delayed in Transmission.)—Managua, Granada and Masaya are still beleaguered and the inhabitants of the two latter towns must be nearing the point of starvation. In a letter which was smuggled out of Granada, a woman writes to her husband here begging that food be got through to the town. She reports conditions in Granada as being terrible. There is, however, no prospect of sending food to the infested towns, until the American marines open the railroad. All communication between Managua and Leon and Corinto is cut off and it is not known here what is happening in the north.

In Managua the situation is critical and if assistance does not come quickly a crisis soon will be reached. Europeans here are making appeals to their home governments for help and protection.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE ISSUES CAMPAIGN BOOK

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The Republican national committee today issued its campaign text book. It is 150 pages shorter than the text book of 1908. It contains the acceptance speech of President Taft and several chapters devoted to the tariff, the cost of living, various phases of the labor question and the record of the Taft administration. The prosecutions under the Sherman law are reviewed at length. A chapter is devoted to Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic candidate, with extracts from his writings.

SUMMER SKIN DISEASES

During the summer most persons are annoyed with pimples, boils, rashes, or eruptions, while others suffer more severely with Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, or some kindred skin disease. The eruptions may be glossed over and inflammation reduced by the application of washes, cosmetics, salves, etc., but no skin affection can ever be permanently cured in this way. Only pure blood insures a healthy skin and the circulation is therefore the point at which treatment should be directed. S.S.S. cures Skin Diseases of every kind by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the blood. S.S.S. builds the circulation up to its normal strength, increases its nutritive powers and adds to its purity in everyway. Then the skin instead of being irritated, burned and blistered with acid humors and impurities, is nourished and healed by a plentiful supply of pure, rich blood. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free to all who write.

De Palma Wins Both Auto Races at Elgin

ELGIN, Ill., Aug. 31.—Ralph De Palma, driving a 90-horsepower Mercedes, swept the boards in the Elgin races today. He took both the 24-mile Elgin national trophy race and the 200-mile Elgin trophy race. After the 24-mile race, De Palma and Ralph Mulford had been out for the winning lap. De Palma drove the last lap of his race in 22 minutes, 24 seconds, the fastest lap of the day. His time for the race was three hours, 24 minutes, 26 seconds, and for the 200-mile event.

Soldiers Make An Art of Wrestling

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Seven years as wrestling instructor in the United States Military academy at West Point is the record owned by Tom Jenkins, former champion wrestler.

The erstwhile champion never was in better condition than when training for matches with Gatch, Mulford and other rivals of 10 years ago.

"I like the work," says Tom. "It keeps me in good shape. And then I have two assistants, so I don't have to work too hard."

"The soldiers make good wrestlers," Tom says. "I had one, a youngster, he graduated last year, who would have made a champion had he turned professional. When he first came to the academy he weighed only 110 pounds. He took to wrestling and it was not long before he was the champion of the featherweight division."

"Then he began to take on weight and in a few months he had reached the 145-pound mark and threw the middleweights, men weighing 10 pounds more than he, just as easily as he had the lighter men."

"Richards is his name and he surely is a great wrestler. He has come from Michigan. I believe he could have thrown Gehrig, Willoughby, Yelverton or any of the middleweights, providing they went on the mat at 150."

FRIEZELL WINS SWIM

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—R. E. Friezell of the city athletic club won the quarter-mile A. C. T. swimming championship from three other contestants at Travers island today. The winner's time, 5:55.4, is 4.15 seconds behind the American record, made last year by R. M. Ritter, Duke Kahanamoku of Hawaii, who had entered, was unable to start, as he is suffering from a cold.

Fighters in Great Trim for Labor Day Battles

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—Joe Rivers was never in better condition, both physically and mentally, than he is at the present time.

This statement stands with no reservation. The Mexican lightweight condition borders upon perfection. His handlers and advisers have done their work well. Rivers will be at his best when he faces Joe Mandot at Vernon next Monday afternoon.

I had watched the little brown boxer since the night he fought his first preliminary in South America until he was crowned champion of the world's lightweight champion last July.

I had figured that Joe had reached his best mark when he fought into the ring to box Wallace, but after watching him at Vernon yesterday afternoon I am of the opinion that he is fully a year and a half better over the Rivers of a few short weeks ago.

It is only recently that Rivers has shown a desire to improve. He is a fighting fighter and among the best of fighters at the present time. An explanation is offered outside of Rivers' plain statement that he just the needed improvement in his coming.

With his big brother, Andy, Rivers laid away a badly broken nose. He showed his fighting partners no mercy. Three of the hired targets took a real licking in silence while Joseph appeared to take delight in extending himself.

Vernon's chief, Dalton, was worried about the risk for three rounds and time after time (they were forced to "stall" and hang on to save himself). A well-weighted named "Blackey" Mitchell tore around the ring for nine minutes and was lucky to save himself from being knocked out. Little Johnny Schiff had his punishment learned to one short round. Rivers made no excuses. He has gone on record to the effect that he is paying the men to give him a daily workout and that they must protect themselves on the long haul. He is well as in the ring. Rivers worked in a boxing style. Never for a moment did he let and he got results. The Mexican was close to the 145-pound mark at the finish, so close that the weighing in problem of next Monday is giving him absolutely no concern.

NEW JAVELIN RECORD

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—P. G. Lott of the Mohawk A. C. made a new American record of 155 feet 10 inches in throwing the javelin during the contest for the A. C. T. Metropolitan junior track and field championship at Celtic park today.

MAKES NEW RECORD FOR ONE-MILE SWIM

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—L. B. Goodwin of the New York Athletic club established a new United States record of 25:25 in the national A. C. T. one-mile outdoor swim, held today in the Hutchinson park, under the auspices of the Illinois Athletic club. The former record of 25:02.3 was made by J. H. Kelly of the New York A. C. in the 1911 championship at New York.

BABY RELIANCE II SETS NEW MOTORBOAT RECORD

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Aug. 31.—America won the first motorboat race of the international series for the Harriman trophy at Huntington bay today and established a world's record for a 20-mile course.

The winning boat, J. Stuart Blackton's Baby Reliance II, 20 feet in length, was the smallest of the fleet of five that started, but she covered the course in 53 seconds, better time than the British challenger, Maple Leaf IV, a 32-foot craft owned by W. Mackay-Edgar.

The Baby Reliance II spun around the 1.5-mile course four times with the record speed of 37.42 knots, or 22.68 miles an hour and the cheers of the thousands aboard a fleet of nearly 500 yachts greeted her victory.

Football Campaign Begins This Month

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—The opening of the football season of 1912, on September 21, will be marked with three games. The Carlisle Indians will meet Albion and two other lesser games are scheduled. The season comes to a close November 30, when West Point and Annapolis play their annual game at Philadelphia.

The first of the big games will be played on November 2, when Harvard and Princeton battle. Yale meets Brown on the following Saturday, and on November 16 Princeton and Yale clash. Harvard faces Yale on November 23, and Pennsylvania and Cornell have their regular Thanksgiving day clash four days later.

Yale is the first of the "big four" to open its season on Wednesday, September 25, but Cornell also plays on that date. The last Saturday in September finds all of the eastern eleven on the gridiron. Only a few midweek games are scheduled this fall, and those that are on the program are chiefly between the smaller colleges.

Pennsylvania plays Michigan on Franklin field November 9. Cornell plays the Wolverines a week later at Ann Arbor, Mich.

HILTON AND HUNTER AFTER TITLE AGAIN

Eighty-three players have entered the national amateur golf championship which begins tomorrow over the links of the Chicago Golf club at Wheaton.

This number is more than a hundred less than entered at Apawamis last year, and is due to the national handicap list inaugurated by the United States Golf association after this season, compiled for the purpose of reducing the field to a number that could be handled easily and at the same time giving those of proven ability an opportunity to compete for the chief title in American golf.

The pairings, as announced by Robert C. Walcott, secretary of the United States Golf association yesterday, show that there are two entries from Great Britain, Harold H. Hilton of the Royal Liverpool Golf club, and Norman F. Hunter of Edinburgh. Hilton and Hunter are now in Chicago. The holder of the American title will have as his partner tomorrow Warren K. Wood, a former runner up to W. C. Homewood, Jr., of Oakmont, at Brookline in 1910. Hunter will play with Harold Weber of Liverpool.

The representation from the metropolitan district is larger than was expected. Jerome D. Travers, the former national champion and present holder of the metropolitan title, Oswald Kirkby of Englewood, New Jersey, Chas. H. Wood, and Fred Henshaw of Garden City, runner up to Hilton last year at Chicago, and will be joined by Walter J. Travis, the Olympic team competition at St. Louis.

Philadelphia is represented by Harold W. Verlin of the Merion Cricket club and George A. Crump of the Philadelphia Country club, while the Massachusetts section will have Heinrich Schmidt of Worcester and Francis Gilmart of Woodland. In view of the fact that many believe the western contingent is likely to give a good account, particular interest is attached to that outfit. There are Mason Phelps of Middlebury, Charles Evans, Jr., of Longview, who won the French championship a couple of years ago; W. C. Fowler, Jr., of Oakmont, former national champion; Alvin Sewall of Riverside, and Eben M. Root at Pittsburgh, another former titleholder. Thomas M. Sherman, Jr., of Yonkers, son of the vice president and winner of a number of titles in northern New York, and his brother, Sherill, are both on the list.

COUNTRY CLUB TENNIS

TOURNEY ON TOMORROW

Beginning tomorrow, the annual invitational tennis tournament of the Chicago Mountain Country club will be played on the club courts at Broadmoor and the tourney promises to attract much attention here and in Denver. Matches in both singles and doubles will be played morning and afternoon, and during the progress of the tournament the courtesies of the club will be extended to those competing.

Interest centers in the play for the challenge cups in singles in men's doubles. The winner of the "singles" will be called upon to meet Walter S. Andrews, Jr., of Denver, the present holder. The cup must be won three times to become the property of the winner. The winners of the doubles play will be pitted against the present holders, E. L. Kernaghan and Daniel W. Knowlton of this city.

Consolation prizes will not be awarded unless there are 12 contestants in the singles and at least 12 in the men's doubles. In the mixed doubles the winning and runner up teams will be given prizes.

An entry fee of $2 will be charged in the singles and $3 in the doubles. Entries must be made in writing, accompanied by entrance fee, to the steward of the club not later than noon today.

The W. W. Williams of this city will act as referee. Arrangements for the tourney are in charge of the club tennis committee, which consists of the following: John J. Knox, chairman; Ashton Foster and W. W. Williams, and the tournament committee, composed of D. W. Knowlton, J. McK. Ferriday, L. G. Carpenter, C. P. Dodge and C. K. Moore.

RITCHIE, THE GIANTS' HOODOO

Lou Ritchie's conquest of the Giants has been one of the queer turns of the season.

battle front. Ritchie is a good pitcher, but against other clubs he is no world-beating wonder. He has his troubles against the Phillies, the Dodgers and even the Braves. But the second he tosses his glove into a ball yard which contains the Giants, McGraw's team is a faded legion, beaten before a ball is tossed. The Cubs, for example, have won 11 out of 18 games from the leaders this season. Of this number Ritchie has won six and dropped but one. And he has beaten six out of seven last season. Of the three shutouts handed the Manhattan contingent this campaign Ritchie has scored two. He had them, stopped in still another game when injured in the eighth round through a collision at the plate. In the run of the game no one pitcher ever had as mystic a spell over another team as Lurid Lou has over the club that at one time was 16 games to the mercy. They couldn't hit him with a galling gun, much less the regulation runaround one prescribed by legal custom. Wishing to show their appreciation to Lou Ritchie for his gallant work as a Giant-killer, some fans have started a subscription list to raise enough money to buy him a motorcar. Ritchie is a motorcycle enthusiast at the present time, but he would be willing to let aside the two-wheeled vehicle and drive a regular car. Chicago fans, however, have not read what Campbell has said about mixing joy riding with ball playing.

It is doubtful if there is any better thrower than Jack McGraw. The American League has some wonders. Hooper, Speaker and Lewis of the Red Sox have deadly arms and all. Ty Cobb is possessed of a wonderful wing and so is Joe Birming-ham of the Naps. Maybe some of these can return the ball to the plate from a deep field as quickly as "Red Jack," but not one of them will make as many accurate peeps in 10 trials.

His deadly accuracy has made Murray the terror of all opposing base runners. Even fast men hesitate about going from first to third, on a hit and run play if the necessary bludge goes into Murray's yard. Still fewer will attempt to score from second on a hit to right, while a sacrifice fly in Jack's territory has to be about twice as long as to any other section of the pasture. The uncanny accuracy of Murray's wing is responsible for this. He can whistle the ball with rifle bullet velocity from almost any part of his playing territory right to the plate, more than nine times out of 10. This Murray has proven to the satisfaction of all his opponents and now they give him a wide berth.

Murray is a good game fellow. He has proven as much this season. Anybody under the hammer of the beachers who who can't get out and make the best of their chances in admiration has to be possessed of great gameness as well as great merit. Probably the best way to explain "Red's" former short-comings is to refer to him as a hard luck player. When he hit safely, invariably there would be no one on the sacks. When he fanned the bases were generally full. When he booted one it let in a run or two, usually they were the fatal runs that decided the pastime.

One of Giants Main Cogs.

But this year, it is a new page in Murray's history. He apparently has outlived the little idiosyncrasies of the past. He has been one of the main cogs of McGraw's champion pacemaker and if a second pennant is unfurled at the Brush stadium no one will have had a greater part in bringing it to New York. Murray is playing the game of his life. He is one of the best pinch hitters on the team. He is one of the best base runners. Both offensively and offensively he has had more spectacular achievements than

HAIR-RAISING STUNTS IN Second Auto Polo Game

Auto polo, the newest of new games, drew another crowd of people who want to be thrilled to Washburn field yesterday afternoon, the Sterling-McLavin team winning from Jackson and Miller by a score of three goals to two.

If anything, yesterday's game was more spectacular than the opening game Friday, and the drivers, Sterling and Jackson, performed every feat possible with an automobile. Auto polo is admittedly as hazardous a game as could be devised, and it is in the recklessness, daring and skill of the drivers that much of the interest lies.

Sterling and McLavin earned things for Friday's defeat, and their work yesterday brought out a great deal of applause, and while Sterling and McLavin won the match by hard and consistent play, one of the features of the afternoon was a goal made by Jackson and Miller in the second period. In result it was a goal from the "kick-off."

With the ball in the center of the field, both cars shot toward it at the crack of the referee's pistol. Both mallet men swung simultaneously, but Miller's blow landed a fraction of a second ahead of McLavin. The ball bounded down the field, with Jackson and Miller in close pursuit. They overtook it a few feet from the goal, and Miller by a clever side stroke, sent it between the goal posts.

There were no upsets yesterday, as on the opening day, but both drivers and their mallet men had some close calls. Neither Jackson nor Sterling are inclined to hesitate at any time on account of the danger of the game, although those who have seen them perform at Washburn field feel sure that it is only a matter of time until a serious accident results. Both drivers are so expert in handling an automobile and have become so accustomed to taking chances every time they go on the field, that missing an upset or a collision by a hair's breadth does not affect them.

By special arrangement made with Athletic Director Rothgeb, Washburn field has been secured again for tomorrow afternoon, Labor day, when auto polo will be staged for the third and last game here this season.

YOUSOUF DROPPED; McBRIDE Coming to Meet Hussane

Two telegrams yesterday, one outgoing and the other incoming, caused Hussane Yousof to be cast into the discard so far as a wrestling match with Yussif Hussane, the Terrible Turk, is concerned.

Yesterday morning Yousof was given his last chance to accept a guarantee from Chicago Sandow, Hussane's manager, to meet his man in a handicap affair. He offered him $125, win, lose or draw, to wrestle two falls, or all of the wrestlers' share of the gate receipts, amounting to 79 per cent of the

COTTRELLS WILL PLAY ZOOZ TODAY

The Zooz play the Cottrells at Zoo park this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock and the same teams play again tomorrow afternoon. These two games are expected to be the best of the 1912 season. The Cottrells are bringing their two regular pitchers, Ryan and Hedrick, and Galt, the Rio Grande south-paw. Hastings will pitch today's game and Van Stone will work tomorrow.

Murray, 1911 Failer Now a Potent Factor

By W. J. MACBETH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Outfielder Jack Murray of the champion Giants, a bright example of what luck and determined hustling can do in the face of adversity, is today the hero of the day. He is by far the best outfielder of his team and one of the most valuable men working for McGraw. At the beginning of the present season, "Red Jack" was a dead end in the estimation of the "hogs." The enthusiasts were riding his neck, laughing, crying, but for his scalp. And all because the fiery slatted young right gardener had fallen down in the world's series with the Athletics.

In the lamentable world's series of last fall Murray was little worse than any of his fellows. In fact, if the Giants had won, out he would have been acclaimed a big hero. But defeat was embittered by the thought that Murray had failed to get a single hit in the six games played. He didn't fail to make an error and that's where the rub came in. To make it worse, for "Red Jack" he was up any number of times in the pinch; that brought out his sticking weakness all the stronger.

It was freely hinted after the world's series that McGraw would not admit Murray and indeed Jack himself expected the ax even after the club's defeat for spring practice at Marlin. Instead of sulking, however, he got out and hustled all the harder against the youngsters who were trying to break into his preserves. If McGraw had entertained any idea of sacrificing "Red" the notion was soon lost. Murray proved one of the best men right from the start of the year.

No Better Thrower in Game.

It is doubtful if there is any better thrower than Jack McGraw. The American League has some wonders. Hooper, Speaker and Lewis of the Red Sox have deadly arms and all. Ty Cobb is possessed of a wonderful wing and so is Joe Birming-ham of the Naps. Maybe some of these can return the ball to the plate from a deep field as quickly as "Red Jack," but not one of them will make as many accurate peeps in 10 trials.

His deadly accuracy has made Murray the terror of all opposing base runners. Even fast men hesitate about going from first to third, on a hit and run play if the necessary bludge goes into Murray's yard. Still fewer will attempt to score from second on a hit to right, while a sacrifice fly in Jack's territory has to be about twice as long as to any other section of the pasture. The uncanny accuracy of Murray's wing is responsible for this. He can whistle the ball with rifle bullet velocity from almost any part of his playing territory right to the plate, more than nine times out of 10. This Murray has proven to the satisfaction of all his opponents and now they give him a wide berth.

Murray is a good game fellow. He has proven as much this season. Anybody under the hammer of the beachers who who can't get out and make the best of their chances in admiration has to be possessed of great gameness as well as great merit. Probably the best way to explain "Red's" former short-comings is to refer to him as a hard luck player. When he hit safely, invariably there would be no one on the sacks. When he fanned the bases were generally full. When he booted one it let in a run or two, usually they were the fatal runs that decided the pastime.

One of Giants Main Cogs.

But this year, it is a new page in Murray's history. He apparently has outlived the little idiosyncrasies of the past. He has been one of the main cogs of McGraw's champion pacemaker and if a second pennant is unfurled at the Brush stadium no one will have had a greater part in bringing it to New York. Murray is playing the game of his life. He is one of the best pinch hitters on the team. He is one of the best base runners. Both offensively and offensively he has had more spectacular achievements than

BAY STATE RIFLEMEN WIN FOUR OUT OF SIX EVEN

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 31.—Massachusetts rifle men won four of six events decided in the inter-shooting tournament here today in the annual members' match of the National Rifle association. The Massachusetts rifle men won at five paces. The six matches today and the leading scores were:

De Palma Wins Both Auto Races at Elgin

ELGIN, Ill., Aug. 31.—Ralph De Palma, driving a 30-horsepower Mercedes, swept the boards in the Elgin races today. He took both the 25-mile Elgin national trophy race and the 30-mile free-for-all event after Edwin Bergdoll and Ralph Mulford had been out of the running by hard luck.

The Palma drove the last lap of his last race in six minutes 42 seconds, the fastest lap of the day. His time for the race was three hours, 22 minutes, 26 seconds, and for the 305-mile event

MAKES NEW RECORD FOR ONE-MILE SWIM

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—L. E. Goodwin of the New York Athletic club established a new United States record of 28:25 in the national A. A. U. one-mile outdoor swim held today in the Lincoln park lagoon, under the auspices of the United Athletic club.

The record of 27:42 was made by W. H. Beatty of the New York A. A. U. in the 1911 championships at New York.

Soldiers Make An Art of Wrestling

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Seven years as wrestling instructor in the United States military academy at West Point is the record owned by Tom Jenkins, former champion wrestler.

The erstwhile champion never was in better condition than when training for matches with Gossel, Mulford and other rivals of 16 years ago.

"I like the work," says Tom. "It keeps me in good shape, and then, I have two assistants, so I don't have to work too hard."

"The soldiers make good wrestlers," Tom bet they do. I had one youngster, he graduated last June, who would have made a champion had he turned professional. When he first came to the academy, he weighed only 122 pounds. He took 125, and it was not long before he was the champion of the featherweight division.

Then, he began to take on weight and in a few months lifted for the lightweight championship of the school and won that too. The next year he was a little bit heavier for the lightweight division, so he went after the welterweights and downed them in short order. Finally, he reached the 145-pound mark and threw the middleweights, men weighing 150 pounds more than he, just as easily as he had the lighter men.

"Richards is his name and he surely is a great wrestler. He hails from Michigan. I believe he could have thrown Gehrig, Willoughby, Tinkel or any of the middleweights, providing they went on the mat at 155."

brought home third by William Chandler, Mulford's mechanic, after Mulford suffered a heat stroke and fainted at the wheel.

Mulford had finished second in the Elgin national race in which Charles Merz, winner of yesterday's Illinois trophy was third, Mortimer Roberts, Mason Special, fourth, and Gill and Erson, Stutz, fifth.

De Palma averaged a speed of 38 miles an hour in the first race and in the last six laps of the second race showed this average up to 30 miles per hour.

The only serious accident occurred in the third lap of the Elgin national race when George Clark of Dallas, Tex., drove his Mercedes through a bunker of bald hay and through a fence at Hornbake's turn. Clark and his mechanic, Malone, were injured but tonight it was said that both will recover. Clark's car was completely wrecked.

FRIEZELL WINS SWIM

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—R. E. Friezell of the city athletic club won the one-quarter-mile A. A. U. national swimming championship from three other contestants at Travers Island today. The winner's time, 5:55.45, is 4.15 seconds behind the American record, made last year by R. M. Ritter, Duke Kahanamoku of Hawaii, who had entered, was unable to start, as he is suffering from a cold.

Fighters in Great Trim for Labor Day Battles

By H. M. WALKER.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 31.—Joe Rivers was never in better condition, both physically and mentally, than he is at the present time.

This statement stands with no reservation. The Mexican lightweight condition borders upon perfection. His handlers and advisers have done their work well. Rivers will be at his best when he faces Joe Mandoli at Vernon next Monday afternoon.

I have watched the little brown boxer since the night he fought his first preliminary at Naut Junction until he was crowned to wear the world's lightweight championship last July.

I had figured that Joe had reached his peak when he walked into the ring to box Wallace, but after watching him at Vernon, I am now certain I am of the opinion that he is fully a 50 per cent improvement over the Rivers of a few short weeks ago.

It is only recently that Rivers has shown a disposition to instruct his sparring partners and among the list of fighters at the Venice camp, no explanation is offered outside of Larry's plain statement that "Rivers the once weakness in his nature coming out."

With his old brother Andy Rivers laid away with a badly broken nose, Joe showed his sparring partners no mercy. The old bird kicked, boxed, took a real beating in silence while Joe appeared to take delight in extending himself.

Vernon Charles Dalton was welcomed about the ring for three rounds and time after time he was forced to "fall" and hang on to save himself. A welterweight named Blakey Mitchell tore around the ring for nine minutes and was lucky to save himself from being knocked out. Little Johnny Schiff had his punishment lessened to one short round. Rivers made no excuses. He has gone on record to the effect that he is paying the men to give him a daily workout and that they must protect themselves.

On the handball court, in shadow boxing and bag punching as well as in the ring, Rivers worked in dashing style. Never for a moment did he lag and he got results. The Mexican was close to the 115-pound mark at the finish, so close that the weighing in problem of next Monday is giving him absolutely no concern.

MAKES NEW RECORD FOR ONE-MILE SWIM

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 31.—Flynn is certainly in grand shape for his fight Monday with Charlie Miller, and those who have not seen him in action since he was last in San Francisco, will note a wonderful improvement. He is as nimble as a featherweight on his feet and when he presses towards his man, with his gloves raised as face guards and his head slightly lowered, there is no such thing as keeping him at arm's length.

While working, close he doesn't swing away prominently as he used to. He covers up from his opponent's fire and watches for openings.

When the openings appear, Jim is quick to take advantage of them and when it comes to a sharp rally with both men working their fists as rapidly as they know how, it is no easy matter for the other fellow to hold his own with the fireman.

Flynn is such a compactly built man and has such a good grip of the floor, that he doesn't flounder or overreach when he misses. He is back to his true position like a flash and he seems to have made some study of pugilistic economy. Very few of his efforts are wasted.

Clark Roberts, an old-time sporting man who of late years has made his home in Los Angeles, was among those who watched Flynn work yesterday. Roberts was quick to remark that "Flynn has made."

It is hard to believe that he is the same fellow who fought in Los Angeles and Roberts. He has got hold of a lot of new stuff. He used to be nothing but a shambling artist, but now he is a real Sam Langford.

Bokine was eliminated from Charlie Miller's program at Spinnaker's, the morning being devoted to field work and the afternoon to expansion work of a sporting character.

This people was surely coming to the ex-manform for the preceding day he went in this ticks with his sparring partners.

CARPENTERS WIN TROPHY IN UNION LABOR LEAGUE

The Carpenters were yesterday awarded the baseball championship in the city Union Labor league and the team presented with the Goldsmith trophy through the Jno. W. Garrett sporting goods store. The emblem is a large silver cup and was well worth the effort made to win it.

The playing season of the league closed yesterday with the teams standing as follows:

BABY RELIANCE II SETS NEW MOTORBOAT RECORD

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Aug. 31.—America won the first motorboat race at the international regatta for the Harmsworth trophy at Huntington bay today and established a world's record for a 30-mile course.

The winning boat, J. Stuart Blackton's Baby Reliance II, 20 feet in length, was the smallest of the fleet of five that started, but she covered the course in 53 seconds better time than the British challenger, Maple Leaf II, a 32-foot craft owned by W. Mackay Edgar.

The Baby Reliance II spun around the 10-mile course four times with the record speed of 37.42 knots, or 42.68 miles an hour and the cheers of the thousands aboard a fleet of nearly 300 yachts greeted her victory.

Football Campaign Begins This Month

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—The opening of the football season of 1912 on September 21, will be marked with three games. The Carlisle Indians will meet Albright and two other lesser games are scheduled. The season comes to a close November 20, when West Point and Amherst play their annual game at Philadelphia.

The first of the big games will be played on November 2, when Harvard and Princeton battle. Yale meets Brown on the following Saturday, and on November 16 Princeton and Yale clash. Harvard faces Yale on November 23, and Pennsylvania and Cornell have their regular Thanksgiving day tussle four days later.

Yale is the first of the "big four" to open its season on Wednesday, September 25, but Cornell also plays on that date. The last Saturday in September finds all of the eastern eleven on the gridiron. Only a few midweek games are scheduled this fall, and those that are on the program are chiefly between the smaller colleges.

Pennsylvania plays Michigan on Franklin field November 9, Cornell plays the Wolverines a week later at Ann Arbor, Mich.

HILTON AND HUNTER AFTER TITLE AGAIN

Eighty-three players have entered the national amateur golf championship which begins tomorrow over the links of the Chicago Golf club at Wheaton.

This number is more than a hundred less than entered at Apawamis last year, and is due to the national handicap list inaugurated by the United States Golf association early this season, compiled for the purpose of reducing the field to a number that could be handled easily and at the same time giving those of proven ability an opportunity to compete for the chief title in American golf.

The pairings, as announced by Robert C. Watson, secretary of the United States Golf association, yesterday, show that there are two entries from Great Britain, Harold H. Hilton of the Royal Liverpool Golf club, and Norman F. Hunter of Edinburgh. Hilton and Hunter are now in Chicago. The holder of the American title will have as his partner tomorrow Warren K. Wood of Homewood, runner up to W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, at Brookline in 1910. Hunter will play with Harold Weber of Inverness.

The representation from the metropolitan district is larger than was expected. Jerome D. Travers, the former national champion and present holder of the metropolitan title, Oswald Kirby of Englewood, New Jersey, champion, and Fred Herreshoff of Garden City, runner up, will play Hilton last night. Yesterday on the twentieth century for Chicago and will be joined by Walter J. Travis for the Olympic team competition on Saturday.

Philadelphia is represented by Howard W. Herrin of the Motion Picture club and George A. Crump of the Philadelphia Country club, while the Massachusetts section will have Heinrich Schmidt of Worcester, and Francis Quinn of Woodland, in view of the fact that many believe the western contingent is likely to give a good account, particular interest is attached to that entry. There are Mason Phelps of Middlebury, Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater, who won the English championship a couple of years ago; W. L. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, former national champion; Albert Sackett of Riverside, and Eben M. Revere of Pittsburgh, another former title holder. Thomas M. Sherman, Jr., of Yalmundasis, son of the vice president and winner of a number of titles in northern New York, and his brother, Sherrill, are both on the list.

Lou Ritchie, the Giants' Hoodoo.

Hair-Raising Stunts in Second Auto Polo Game

Auto polo, the newest of new games, drew another crowd of people who went to be thrilled in Washburn field yesterday afternoon. The Sterling-Melvin team winning from Jackson and Miller by a score of three goals to two.

Yesterday's game was more spectacular than the opening game Friday, and the drivers, Sterling and Melvin, performed every feat possible with an automobile. Auto polo is admittedly as hazardous a game as could be devised, and it is in the recklessness, daring and skill of the drivers that much of the interest lies.

Sterling and Melvin evened things up for Friday's defeat, and their work yesterday brought out a great deal of applause. And while Sterling and Melvin with the match by hand and foot, yesterday was a goal made by Jackson and Miller in the second period. In reality it was a goal from the "kick-off."

With the ball in the center of the field, both cars shot toward it at the crack of the referee's pistol. Both mallet men swung simultaneously, but Miller's blow landed a fraction of a second ahead of Melvin's. The ball bounded down the field, with Jackson and Miller in close pursuit. They overtook it a few feet from the goal, and Miller by a clever side stroke, sent it between the goal flags.

There were no upsets yesterday, as on the opening day, but both drivers and their mallet men had some close calls. Neither Jackson nor Sterling are inclined to hesitate at any time on account of the danger of the game, although those who have seen them perform at Washburn field feel sure that it is only a matter of time until a serious accident results. Both drivers are 33, expert in handling an automobile and have become so accustomed to making chances every time they go on the field, that missing an upset or a collision by a hair's breadth does not affect them.

By special arrangement made with Athletic Director Rothgeb, Washburn field has been secured again for tomorrow afternoon, Labor day, when auto polo will be staged for the third and last game here this season.

COUNTRY CLUB TENNIS TOURNAMENT ON TOMORROW

Beginning tomorrow, the annual invitation tennis tournament of the Cheyenne Mountain Country club will be played on the club courts at Broadmoor and the tourney promises to attract much attention here and in Denver. Matches in both singles and doubles will be played morning and afternoon, and during the progress of the tournament the courtesies of the club will be extended to those competing.

Interest centers in the play for the challenge cups in singles in men's doubles. The winner of the singles will be played upon to meet Walter S. Andrews, Jr., of Denver, the present holder. The cup must be won three times to become the property of the winner. The winners of the doubles play will be pitted against the present holders, E. L. Ketchikan and Daniel W. Kitchinson of this city.

Consolation prizes will be accorded unless there are 18 contestants in the singles and at least 12 in the men's doubles. In the mixed doubles the winning and runner up teams will be given prizes.

An entry fee of $2 will be charged in the singles and $3 in the doubles. Entries must be made in writing, accompanied by entrance fee, to the secretary of the club not later than noon today.

Dr. W. W. Williams of this city will act as referee. Arrangements for the tourney are in charge of the Club tennis committee, which consists of the following: John J. Knox, chairman; Ashton Potter and W. C. Williams; and the tournament committee, composed of Dr. W. W. Williams, J. McK. Ferriday, L. G. Carpenter, C. P. Dodge and C. K. Moore.

Murray, 1911 Failure Now a Potent Factor

By W. J. MACBETH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Outfielder Jack Murray of the champion Giants, is a bright example of what pluck and determination will do in the face of severest hostility. Murray is today one of the 100s of the Polo grounds. He is by far the best outfielder of his team and one of the most valuable men working for McGraw. At the beginning of the present season, "Red Jack" was a dead end in the estimation of the "hugs." The enthusiasts were riding his neck, rough-shod, crying lustily for his scalp. And all because the fiery-haired young right gardener had fallen down in the world's series with the Athletics.

In the lamentable world's series of last fall Murray was little worse than any of his fellows. In fact, if the Giants had won out, he would have been acclaimed a big hero. Instead of sulking, however, he got out and hustled all the harder against the youngsters who were trying to break into his preserves. If McGraw had entertained any idea of sacrificing "Red" the nation was none the wiser. Murray proved one of the best men in the lot from the start of the year.

Ty Cobb is possessed of a wonderful wing and so is Joe Birming, ham of the Naps. Maybe some of these can return the ball to the plate from a deep field as quickly as "Red Jack," but not one of them will make as many accurate passes in 10 trials.

His deadly accuracy has made Murray the lion of all upping base runners. Even fast men hesitate about going from first to third on a hit and run play if the necessary bingle goes into Murray's yard. Still fewer will attempt to score from second on a hit to right, while a sacrifice fly in Jack's territory has to be about twice as long as to any other section of the pasture. Company team match: teams of 6, 14 teams competing; seven shots at 200 and 300 yards—Company First infantry, District of Columbia, first, 31; Company I, Third Alabama, second, 35; Company D, Second Alabama, third, 30.

Youseuf Dropped; McBride Coming to Meet Hussane

Two telegrams yesterday, one outgoing and the other incoming, caused Hassan Youseuf to be cast into the discard so far as a wrestling match with Yusuf Hussane, the Terrible Turk, is concerned.

Yesterday morning Youseuf was given his last chance to accept a guarantee from Chicago-Sandow. Hussane's manager, to meet his man in a handicap affair. He offered him $125, win or lose, or to wrestle two falls, or all of the wrestlers' share of the gate receipts, amounting to 70 per cent of the house, if Hussane failed to throw Youseuf 19 times in an hour.

Sandow and Promoter Tommy Ryan made a final effort to get Youseuf to sign articles of agreement yesterday on the above basis. Now he is non est so far as the more consideration.

In his stead Dan McBride, Canada champion, has been secured to go on with Hussane here next Thursday night. The match will be staged at Temple Theater. McBride, according to Ryan, who knows most of the grasplers of class, is a big man, tipping the scales well over the 200-mark, and in the matter of poundage, will not concede anything to the Turk. He has the reputation of being a clever and scientific grappler, and is expected to give Hussane a good battle.

Ryan has received a wire from the Canadian title holder, saying that he will be here two days before the date of the match, and that he is in good shape now for the contest. Hussane has been doing light training, thinking he would have a chance at Youseuf, but now that there is nothing doing in that direction he will get in shape for McBride.

GAIL BEATS SHEFFER

In the consolation finals, closing the V. M. C. A. tennis tournament yesterday afternoon, Gail defeated Sheffer, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2. Both played high class tennis.

Every Department is Showing New Fall Merchandise

THE SHOWING of new fall fashions in every department attracted much attention this last week, and heavy demands were made on the new arrivals. This week the showing promises to be still more attractive, as every department has received new goods almost every day for the last week. Accept this as an invitation to come in and inspect the new goods.

Autumn Ready to Wear

Another shipment of suits, coats and dresses just received and put on display this week. At no previous season have we had an exhibit so nearly complete at such an early date. The new styles are full of surprises and win admiration at first sight. The new lines, the new materials, the new lengths and the new novel ideas in trimmings and other new features give greater opportunity for suiting individual tastes. You are also assured of an exclusive model if you buy here, as any garment other than the plain ones will not be duplicated in Colorado Springs. We are showing exact copies of models from the following French designers: Drecol, Worth, Poiret, Paquin, Francis, Linker, Cheruit, and others. Come in when you can. We will be pleased to show you the new arrivals.

An Exquisite Showing of the New Fall Millinery

Yesterday we received another shipment of beautiful hats. Nothing so delightfully wearable has been seen in millinery for a long time and some are the most attractive styles we have ever shown, and certainly the assortment is larger than any we have shown at such an early date. We are also showing a number of beautiful creations from our own workrooms that are bound to meet with admiration.

Accept this as an invitation to visit our Millinery Department and view the most striking fall styles.

New Trimmings

The new fall trimmings are here. Among them are the new overdress in black, crystal and colors; new wide ecru bands, new Venetian bandings, Chantilly laces in black and cream, suitable for dresses and a number of others in the beautiful new effects for fall.

Display of New Dress Goods

An attractive group of the new autumn dress fabrics is now awaiting your inspection in our Dress Goods Department. The autumn's best weaves are to be seen here now, and in designs that are very attractive. We can give you no idea of their beauty you will have to see them.

New Neckwear

Another shipment of new neckwear has just been received a beautiful lot of Robespierre ruffs for the neck, new effects in Robespierre collars, in black and white combinations; new net rufflings for coats and many others in the new novelty effects.

ANDON, Ala. 11.—Surely nowhere a war against poverty needed more than in this city, where deaths from starvation in the east and are the order of the day and where the pen of a writer would not suffice to describe the horrors and misery of the poverty-stricken, who to be found almost everywhere within a stone's throw from the mansions of the rich.

The case is to be declared very soon. The joint committee of the Independent Labor party and the Fabian league is calling a national conference.

October 11 to promote "war against poverty" in connection with demand that parliament should devote the whole of next session to the consideration and passing of measures to raise the standard of life for workpeople.

The conference which will be held in Memorial hall, will consider demands for legislation dealing with a legal minimum wage, reduction of hours of labor, complete prohibition against sickness, national insurance, old age pension, prevention of unemployment, healthful homes for all and

The PRINCESS WHO VOLUNTARILY BECAME A SCRUBWOMAN

And The Dramatic Denouement of Her Love Affair

By HENRY W. FISCHER.

A THEATRE full of princesses, countesses, courtiers and society folk; the entire corps de ballet of the Imperial Opera in St. Petersburg; the gayest of music; refreshment royally served in royal profusion with scores of servants in the showy dress of French maîtresses of the eighteenth century. The host, Count Verigin, makes the announcement that there will be a sensational climax to the ballet novelty and all are on the qui vive of anticipation.

Suddenly a pistol shot is heard above the turmoil of dances and folk chatter. The coil of dancers unfolds with sudden, rapid movements. There are cries of horror, threatened panic!

For as the crowd of ballet girls run into the wings, Count Verigin, who still stands in the center of the stage where he made his announcement, an empty champagne glass in his upturned left hand, reels and falls. The crystal shatters on the floor, next to a thing of steel and ivory.

"His own revolver, by the saints!" shrieks a woman. "Farewell!" cries the man in the center of the stage, his voice broken.

As he falls heavily, a stream of blood gushes from his side.

And Count Verigin, Master of Horse in the Empress' bodyguard, is dead.

The musicians stop their music and begin to climb upon the stage; most of the society men follow suit; many women faint.

Then, from the rear of the stage, rushes a young woman of tall, commanding figure. She is dressed like a servant, but more comely than most of her class. As she hastens forward, a broom is seen to fall from one of her hands.

She throws herself on the bleeding figure of the Count. She bends his head on her knees and tries to staunch the flow of blood with a piece of lace torn from her sleeve.

"My Gregory! My poor Gregory!" she moans over and over again. Then, facing the startled crowd, she calls authoritatively for a doctor, for stimulants, for handkerchiefs. She compels the utmost haste. Her voice demands instant obedience.

The Count's major-domo enters the circle that surrounds the two. He is followed by the Countess Gerka, a sister of the dead man and by other relatives.

"Away with you, Maria Alexandrovna," he orders sharply. "This is His Excellency's sister."

BUT the young woman does not obey. With neatly a hundred people, relatives, friends and servants, ranging around her she steadfastly maintains her place beside the dead man. She is only a servant, but there is that in her manner which causes the crowd to hold back.

The father of Count Verigin arrives. He angrily demands that the "waiting maid" withdraw.

Still holding the head of the dead Count on her knees, the woman raises herself proudly.

"I am a Princess," is her startling statement.

There is consternation, doubt, indignation among the onlookers.

"May it please your Excellency, I am the Princess Maria Alexandrovna Garazina and Gregory was my friend—the only friend I had in the world."

Garazina is one of the greatest names in the roster of Russian nobility. A Garazina in servant's dress is impossible!

The major-domo interposed.

"She came here a month ago asking for a job," he said. "The forest would do, she told us. We needed an additional scrubwoman, and I engaged her. She also used to do the hootblackening for His Lordship. She was waiting behind the stage to clean up after the ballet."

Old Count Verigin looked hard at the woman.

"Why this farce?" he asked.

Maria Alexandrovna, the scrubwoman, tore off the soiled brown cotton cloth that covered her head. The crowd drew back, awed, for the gleaming diadem of a Russian Princess of the blood shone proudly in her dark hair, a crescent of blue velvet set with priceless diamonds.

The crowd was silent. At last the old Count hesitatingly approached the whirling servant.

"Why this masquerade, Your Highness?" he asked.

All this happened a few weeks ago at the Castle Bjelaja, Count Verigin's country seat, situated near the Imperial Palace and Summer residence of Gatchina, two hours' ride from St. Petersburg. Castle Bjelaja belonged to the great house of Count Verigin and its proprietor, Count Gregory, was known as the gayest of the golden youth of Russia.

A year ago his betrothal to Princess Maria Alexandrovna Garazina was gazetted by the Tsar himself on the occasion of a ball at court.

"The handsomest pair in Russia," said everybody, and "the richest," added those who knew.

Maria Alexandrovna went with her mother to Paris and afterward to Vienna to select her trousseau. The Count resigned from active service in the Empress' bodyguard—in order to devote himself to his landed estates, but his name was kept on the army list and he appointment, being, at the same time, "commanded" to wait upon Her Majesty at once, she vanished from her parents' palace in Moscow, and was not seen again by any member of her family, not by any one of her friends until the tragedy already described.

INVESTIGATION showed that Maria Alexandrovna had gone away with a small valise containing only a change of dress and some extra linen. The Princess, it seems, went to a cheap department store and bought for a few rubles two dresses such as are used by working women for every day wear. She did not take a single piece of jewelry with her except an heirloom, a diamond tiara, and very little money.

The Garazina family instituted an immediate search for the heiress, the Tsar ordering his secret police to assist.

Vienna, Paris, the Riviera, as well as Russia, were searched in vain for the parents and friends of the Princess sought her among people of her own class. They never dreamed that she might have abandoned riches and luxury for a life of toil and "social degradation."

Meanwhile, Maria Alexandrovna, inspired by the teachings of Tolstoi's teachings, was actually earning her bread by the sweat of her brow.

This pampered princess, the mistress of vast riches, who had never picked up as much as a handkerchief from the floor, and who had the disposal of thousands per week, went to St. Petersburg in a third-class railway carriage whose other occupants were drunken peasants and soldiers. She entered the first employment agency she saw. She wore the poor clothes she had purchased and was careful to keep her hands under her apron so as not to arouse suspicion.

The proprietor, after demanding a fee, put down

he lost his love and was trying to forget his troubles in the gayest of any life.

Maria Alexandrovna had been a month in her ex-lover's employ when the Count sent out invitations for a great feast.

"I want all my friends to be present," he wrote, "for to-morrow evening marks an epoch in my life. There will be a sensational development which will interest all my friends. Don't miss the occasion lest you miss the treat of your life." Castle Bjelaja is an immense pile, having at one time belonged to one of the favorites of the great Catherine. There is a Summer theatre, fully equipped, with a covered stage, the audience being seated at small marble tables, as in a Parisian cafe.

The Count has engaged the Imperial Ballet and a fine orchestra was the gayest of the gay, and by his orders the servants not only supplied the company with wine, but likewise the musicians and the dancers.

"Let's make this the time of our lives," he said repeatedly. "Who knows whether we will be alive to-morrow? I only wish I could spend my entire fortune in one big festival."

WHILE the Count was enjoying himself with his guests and making pretty speeches to the ladies present, Princess Maria Alexandrovna stood behind the scenes with brush and pail, ready to sweep the stage during the intermissions.

This night as she watched Count Gregory he drove his guests and dancers to a frenzy of revelry. It was not until the ballet garbed in black appeared on a sable curtained, skull bedecked stage that a spirit of uneasiness penetrated the wits of the wondering guests.

For among the girls who were to dance the "Dance of Death" to the music of a gypsy love song was the Count himself.

He called for champagne and turned to the waiting dancers.

"Girls," he said, "life without love is empty, wearisome, even loathsome. A man such as I must surround himself with the evidences of gaiety. I will die no melancholy dog." Count Gregory motioned for the table to proceed, drained his champagne, pulled his trigger and fell among the shattered bits of his wineglass, a revolver bullet in his heart.

When they told her that the Count was beyond aid Maria Alexandrovna fled, and the Russian secret service are trying to find whether she is still scrubbing floors or whether she followed Count Gregory in the mazes of the "Dance of Death."

Nailed Again.

He had returned home in the evening, tired and ready for a restful hour or two.

"John, my love," said his little wife, sweetly, "did you post that letter I gave you this morning?"

"Yes, my pet," said John, hiding his conscience-stricken face behind the newspaper.

"Well, what is your answer?" still more sweetly.

"Wh-what is what?" gasped John.

"What is your answer, dear?" said his little wife clearly. "That letter was addressed to you."

"Addressed to me?" exclaimed John. "I didn't notice it."

And then, like a foolish man, he fell into the trap and produced the letter from his pocket to see. The envelope was not addressed to him; but a long and severe lecture was, shortly after.

A Proper Pride.

Alphonso—I want you to understand, sir, that my pride forbids me to accept anything from you after I marry your daughter.

Her Parent—How are you going to live? Alphonso—Well, I thought you might make some kind of a settlement beforehand.

The Real Clinger.

"Woman is naturally of a clinging nature," observed he.

"Yes," rejoined his wife; "but she isn't to be compared with a man when it comes to holding on to money."

She Held the Count's Head in Her Lap.

was detailed to duty at such times as the Imperial family resided in Gatchina.

In Paris and afterward at her home, Maria Alexandrovna met the Princess Cantacuzene, who was Julia Dent Grant, the daughter of the late Gen. Fred Grant. The Princess Julia told Maria Alexandrovna a good deal of American and American ways. She said that she had married an idler, but had made him a self-supporting, self-respecting man. The Princess Julia told Maria Alexandrovna of how many an American girl had made her way in the world, without assistance from anybody, even working with her hands when necessary.

Maria Alexandrovna was greatly impressed by what she heard and told her betrothed that there was no real happiness in a life of luxury without industry and that he must mend his ways if he really desired to marry her.

"You must have been reading Tolstoi," laughed the Count. "Why should I, twenty times a millionaire, work like a drayman? Isn't it enough if I put proper administrators over my estates and spend my income as behooves a nobleman?"

Maria Alexandrovna didn't think it was. She urged Gregory to take the administration of his lands in his own hands, to introduce American agricultural machinery and teach the people on his vast estates to use them to their profit.

The Count laughed at her theories and said he would renege on his promise to the Princess Julia for making "a little Yankee" out of his future wife.

There was a quarrel, but the Count thought to smooth matters by procuring for Maria Alexandrovna an appointment as lady-in-waiting to the Tsarina. Life at court, he argued to himself, would soon drive those strange ideas out of her head.

This day after the Count's betrothal received her her assumed name among the list of applicants and sent her to a lodging, where the employment office, where she remained several days cooped up with out-of-work servants of all sorts. She made friends with the miscellaneans, crowd into whose society she had been thrown, she asked about his or her troubles; she gave them sympathy, she divided among them the few rubles left of the scant store she had brought with her from home.

WHEN she had no more money, the proprietor was quick to find her a place as maid-of-all-work in a cheap hotel. Her wages were fifty rubles ($25) a year.

When she arrived at her place of employment, the Princess was at once put to work scrubbing and cleaning. She scoured the floors and the stairs, washed the pots and polished up the brass trimmings until 11 at night. She slept with sixteen other girls in a stuffy room and at 4 in the morning the housekeeper roused her to black the boots of the guests.

Maria Alexandrovna was resolved to work and to work hard, but she had not counted upon blacking dozens of men's and women's shoes. She didn't know how to go about it, and incidentally, it may be remarked, that Russian hootblackening is not nearly as easy as the American sort.

Yet this royal young woman, who had never done any harder work than brushing her teeth, got through blacking thirty pairs of boots between 4 A. M. and 7 A. M. and performed her work so well that most of the guests insisted upon throwing her a copper or two before they left the hotel. This "drink money" she earned by blacking boots she freely distributed among the poor, particularly among persons out of work.

The former society girl stood this sort of work nearly three months. Then she broke down under the burden and was carried to a hospital, where she lay ill for six weeks. But even when death stared her in the face she refused to reveal her identity. When finally she left the hospital, she took, by advice of the doctor, lighter employment. She became a salesgirl in a department store when a place where low grade goods were sold was offered to her. She didn't dare become a salesgirl of high priced articles, as she feared recognition by society people visiting the store.

But the moral atmosphere of the place was such that the high-bred girl gave up her position after a trial of a few weeks. She had saved ten rubles, bought herself a scrub pail, a brush and other necessary tools and advertised for work as a house cleaner and waitress.

In this capacity she worked for another four months.

BUT with the approach of Summer Maria Alexandrovna felt that a season in the open air and sunshine would do her good, and so she went to Gatchina, a favorite Summer resort of the St. Petersburgers, to seek employment.

One of the local agents found her a position as scrubwoman and maid-of-all-work at Castle Bjelaja, a favorite Summer resort of the St. Petersburgers, to seek employment.

On the third day, however, she was informed by fellow servants who her employer was, and soon afterward she had occasion to see Gregory, her erstwhile lover. She hardly recognized him in the dissipated, old-looking man, for the Count had greatly changed since

"Let's make this the time of our lives," he said repeatedly. "Who knows whether we will be alive to-morrow? I only wish I could spend my entire fortune in one big festival."

WHILE the Count was enjoying himself with his guests and making pretty speeches to the ladies present, Princess Maria Alexandrovna stood behind the scenes with brush and pail, ready to sweep the stage during the intermissions.

This night as she watched Count Gregory he drove his guests and dancers to a frenzy of revelry. It was not until the ballet garbed in black appeared on a sable curtained, skull bedecked stage that a spirit of uneasiness penetrated the wits of the wondering guests.

For among the girls who were to dance the "Dance of Death" to the music of a gypsy love song was the Count himself.

He called for champagne and turned to the waiting dancers.

"Girls," he said, "life without love is empty, wearisome, even loathsome. A man such as I must surround himself with the evidences of gaiety. I will die no melancholy dog." Count Gregory motioned for the table to proceed, drained his champagne, pulled his trigger and fell among the shattered bits of his wineglass, a revolver bullet in his heart.

When they told her that the Count was beyond aid Maria Alexandrovna fled, and the Russian secret service are trying to find whether she is still scrubbing floors or whether she followed Count Gregory in the mazes of the "Dance of Death."

Nailed Again.

He had returned home in the evening, tired and ready for a restful hour or two.

"John, my love," said his little wife, sweetly, "did you post that letter I gave you this morning?"

"Yes, my pet," said John, hiding his conscience-stricken face behind the newspaper.

"Well, what is your answer?" still more sweetly.

"Wh-what is what?" gasped John.

"What is your answer, dear?" said his little wife clearly. "That letter was addressed to you."

"Addressed to me?" exclaimed John. "I didn't notice it."

And then, like a foolish man, he fell into the trap and produced the letter from his pocket to see. The envelope was not addressed to him; but a long and severe lecture was, shortly after.

A Proper Pride.

Alphonso—I want you to understand, sir, that my pride forbids me to accept anything from you after I marry your daughter.

Her Parent—How are you going to live? Alphonso—Well, I thought you might make some kind of a settlement beforehand.

The Real Clinger.

"Woman is naturally of a clinging nature," observed he.

"Yes," rejoined his wife; "but she isn't to be compared with a man when it comes to holding on to money."

he lost his love and was trying to forget his troubles in the gayest of any life.

Maria Alexandrovna had been a month in her ex-lover's employ when the Count sent out invitations for a great feast.

"I want all my friends to be present

SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE RISING SUN

A Suffrage Fact Narrative

By HEYWOOD BROWN.

It was Boswell's Dr. Johnson, who said in connection with the performance of a trick dog that walked on its hind legs that he was not remarkable because he walked well, but because he walked at all. Just so the woman suffrage movement in China is not remarkable for its extent or influence, but because it exists at all.

The report was spread broadcast through the newspapers of this country a few months ago that the women of China had been granted the ballot. This, however, was not true, and there does not seem to be any immediate prospect of Chinese women gaining such a right.

The report had its origin in a demonstration which a group of militant suffragists made at Nanking. Indeed, they are a most timely movement in full abreast of the times. The women in the demonstration were recruited for the most part from the ranks of the Anarchists, a famous regiment which was organized during the revolution.

The women, though they may have had the best intentions in the world, saw no fighting, for they never ventured out of camp but once, and then they were protected and guarded by the bare to the one of the crack regiments of the rebel army.

Whether their lack of warlike experience was due to lack of appetite or lack of luck it is certain that the conclusion of hostilities left them with a keen hunger for action. Accordingly, the entire body, with a few added recruits from civilian ranks, marched into the hall of the provisional assembly at Nanking and demanded that the right to vote be given to women.

Even then the women of China were no larger than their feeble sisters, and a few in the delegation were foot-bound women, who hobbled in parsimoniously to demand their rights.

NEVERTHELESS, their appearance was sufficient to arouse the attention of the assembly. In addition to their gaudy dress of red and yellow, and the intense, heavily expressed, become women that they would keep in the assembly chamber until granted the ballot was the cause which sent a messenger post haste to summon Dr. Sun.

The Doctor gave them four words, but nothing more and, failing to appease them, sent for the governor of his two daughters, Miss May 1, Soong, a graduate of Radcliffe.

The young woman addressed the mob of rascals and entreated them to pick up their baggage and go home, but like Doctor Sun, she was without success, and it was not until the assembly had made a half-hearted promise to do what it could toward providing the ballot for women that the militant delegation marched out of the hall in good order.

As a matter of fact even a definite promise on the part of the Nanking Assembly would have been of little use, for when the North and South were consolidated and the government moved to Peking the Nanking legislators lost whatever power they once had. This was the sole foundation for the story that the women of China had been granted the franchise. The woman's movement is much stronger in the South than in the North, and since the government has moved to Peking very little has been heard about the question.

In Shanghai, which is one of the strongholds of the woman's party, I met Miss Ling Tsung Hsu, a leader of the woman's suffrage party, and discussed the movement with her. In almost all phases conditions were strikingly the same in China as in America.

"Woman's place is in the home," is the catchword of the Chinese opponents of the movement, just as it is of the American. In some respects, however, the position of the Chinese woman is stronger than that of their sisters in other lands. If a Chinaman objects that the women of his country are not yet ready to vote, the obvious reply is, "But are the men ready?"

THEN, too, the women can assert that they enjoyed the ability to bear arms during the revolution. And finally the argument that those who wear the trousers should hold the ballot will not do in China, for there it is the women who are trousersed and the men who are skirted.

The weakness of the suffrage movement in China is that it is being carried on almost entirely by unmarried women, and to the children-loving Chinese, an unmarried woman is worth less than nothing at all.

I found Miss Ling a pretty little woman, essentially Chinese in type. She wore Chinese clothes and had practically nothing of the West about her. She did not speak English, so I was obliged to quiz her through an interpreter.

"The delegates declare that we are intellectually unfit to poke our heads in political affairs, and courteously suggest that we should go home and prepare ourselves for the responsibility," said Miss Ling. "If we are not in a position to cope with political affairs, and if we should first tread upon a probationary ground before reaching that destination, what about them? Are they fit? Should not they also prepare themselves?"

In reply to a question as to the organization of the movement Miss Ling said:

"Our headquarters will always be located near the capital. As the provisional capital has been removed to Peking, our central organ will be likewise transferred. Our Union has six boards with which to carry out our different projects. We have a board of finance, education, communication, etc., each supervised by a director.

"Branch associations are now established everywhere. When the National Convention sits we shall submit our suffrage problem for its discussion and action. We shall struggle for our rights. It will, indeed, be very regrettable, if sanguinary measures should be unavoidably occasioned by its indifference and procrastination."

I TRIED to draw from Miss Ling just what the sanguinary measures would be, but either she was unwilling to tell, or the interpreter did not realize what I was trying to get at, for she switched to another track and left me in ignorance as to whether bombs or brickbats were to be looked for from the militant women of China.

"In the meanwhile," she said, "we are now trying our best to educate our sisters along legal and political principles. Lectures and special schools will be founded for the dissemination of education among our women folk. We are well aware of the fact that our suffrage qualifications are not up to the standard of our English and American sisters.

"Our political rights and the nature of our duty will be necessarily different. Our American sisters seem to have fairly got what they strived for, because their government is a republic. Why not we in our republic?"

"If we have an equal voice in the government, it will be so much to the interest of the nation. We will launch forth important reforms which will prove of immense benefit to the community."

The woman's suffrage movement in China dates back to a period five years before the revolution, when Miss Chu, a school teacher, identified herself with one of the many plots against the Manchu government in the hope of bringing about the enfranchisement of women. The plot was discovered and Miss Chu was executed.

Woman's suffrage in China has, therefore, its martyr, an asset which the women of England seem to think a vital one. The three present leaders are Miss Ling Tsung Hsu of Shanghai, and Miss Wu Nuh Lan and Miss Shih Su Chung of Nanking. These three women are all returned students from Japan. Many of the other women in the movement are merely graduates of Chinese normal schools.

It is a peculiar fact that these Chinese women who have been educated in America and very little figure in the movement, while the women from Japan, usually considered a country much less radical, are in the forefront. The American missionaries and their wives, who have always had a powerful influence in most of the reform movements of China, have fought shy of woman suffrage, so the movement, at least, has the advantage of being distinctly national and unsponsored from without.

THE total number of those in the movement, although I was assured that the organization had representatives in every province, did hardly amount to more than 2,000. It is fair to expect that with such a vigorous organization as the movement seems to possess, great progress will be made in the next few years. It will certainly be, however, a long time before the Union organ the ballot.

One of the chief obstacles to the progress of enlightening the women of China is the extraordinary ideas of propriety which lodge them in. In a village if you look at any Chinese woman who is anything under eighty she will immediately drop her eyes and run into the house.

As for the girls who are from ten to twenty years of age, one sees them almost not at all. In Peking women are admitted to only two theatres and then they must sit in a gallery reserved for them to the exclusion of men.

A boy of wealthy parents who rides abroad in a litter may look out of the window and watch what is going on, but his sister, be she ever so little, must keep the blind drawn.

It is highly improper for a man to shake hands with a woman or even to hand her a fan. The polite Chinaman would place the fan on the table where the lady could reach it, but in presenting it to her their hands should meet.

In fact, it is considered that a very particular man once asked Mencius, the sage, whether it would be permissible to drag a strange woman out of the water by her hands if she seemed to be drowning. The sage replied that in such an extreme case it would be permissible.

PEKING was "thrown into a fit of horror" when an American coast company undertook to advertise its goods by means of billboards. China is essentially a man's world. A woman who is guilty of unfaithfulness, to her husband, to law is to be stoned, drowned or hanged. For the man there is no penalty.

A few hundred years ago it was customary for the widows to cut themselves at their husbands' funerals. No one ever thought of widowers acting in the same manner and the women have now tired of this unequalitarianism.

Of course all marriages are arranged through the parents. No Chinaman would propose directly to a girl for fear of being refused, which would be an indignity unbearable. These parent-made marriages may be the reason for the fact that there are five female suicides for every male suicide.

On the other hand, after a woman has borne children her lot is not so bad, for they owe her the utmost of obedience and her daughters-in-law are practically her slaves. It is only fair to deny the rumor, which is from abroad in regard to China, that the practice of killing girl babies is very common. Such is not the case, as is evidenced by the fact that there are a great many more women in China than men.

It is true, however, that the custom of footbinding is going out very slowly. Dr. Morrison, the great English authority on China, estimates that at least ninety per cent of all the better class women in the country have bound feet.

In Hong Kong I knew a Chinese family the three daughters of which were known by the un-oriental names of Rosie, Annie and Mabel. Rosie had been educated in Vassar, had seen Christy Mathewson pitch and believed in woman's suffrage.

The ballot will hardly come through the activities of the Rosies, who are but a tiny proportion of the entire population. The position of women in China, in general, will have to be radically changed before the efforts to secure the ballot will be successful.

THE WICKED OPTIMIST

ONE, once said that pessimists and amateur photographers are curiously alike, in that they always take the worst possible view of everything. An optimist, on the other hand, is popularly supposed to be a brisk, cherry sort of person, who goes about smiling broadly, and always looks on the bright side of things.

The wisest wisdom lies, of course, in refusing to be labeled as either of these extreme types, the last and the best of all people being usually those whom it is most difficult to describe. But if you must belong to an extreme type, then I advise you to be all means to cultivate a gentle pessimism.

It seems to me that the confirmed optimist needs a bit more luck than falls to the lot of most of us if he is going to make a success of his career, and not a costly failure.

The smile which never comes off is very jolly and all that, but in real workaday life you will find that it is apt to cause the smilee—and others—a good deal of expensive trouble. Because it is too often the smile of either indifference or rank stupidity.

The optimist is a bad friend in need. "Never trouble trouble till trouble troubles you," he says glibly, as he slips you on the back. "Always hope for the best." "Things are never as bad as they seem." "The night is always darkest just before the dawn."

There are among his favorite sayings. "You drop him by the hand and declare that it does you good to meet him." And then, if you are a very abject kind of fellow, you can all your cares aside, and go with him and enjoy yourself.

MEANWHILE the distressed, distressed pessimist, Mr. Dumpe, goes on warning you and advising you till you have to be rude to him. And then he takes himself off with a sigh, and does what he can to help you out of your fix in his own peculiarly melancholy, helpful way.

But when he has put things right for you, it is the optimist who exclaims breezily, "What did I tell you? I knew that gloomy caven of a Dumpe was all wrong!" and then you thank him and say what a capital fellow he is.

But it is perhaps in the commonplace affairs of every day that the optimist gets in his headiest work, and makes the most complicated mess of things. Let us figure, for example, an optimist who lives in some outlying suburb, a mile or so from the nearest railway station. It is important that a certain train shall be caught.

Some unforeseen accident has delayed him and his wife, who has accompanied him at the last moment. The lady, who is a pessimist—as optimist's wives are bound to be—exists tearfully that they cannot possibly reach the station in time.

"DON'T you worry, it's all right," he says brightly. "If the worst comes to the worst, we can take a cab, that's all."

"But suppose there isn't a cab to be got?"

And, of course, as the lady feared, there is never a cab available. They arrive at the station but find a train just a minute too late, and have to wait an hour on the dreary platform, where the wife and the hair-cutting caddy, whilst the people who are expecting them in town get very cross, and say that of course it is that wretched Mrs. Optimist's fault, and wonder how that perfectly charming husband of hers can put up with her.

But one could quote many more similar instances of what goes on from day to day, year in and year out, within the sphere of the optimist's influence.

For he can never be brought to see that the disaster is always happening, and that the prudent course is to provide against any possible accidents, however unpleasant.

He is, in fact, too inherently selfish to appreciate the harm he does to others dependent on him to his haphazard ways and delinquent carelessness, and thus accounts for his invariably good humor.

But really the optimist is, in his such way, an emigrated curse to all in his immediate circle.

What a lot of style the Browns are putting on! Yes, and what a lot of crediters they are putting off!

Did you succeed in getting that manager to engage you?

Yes. He is going to let me play the part of a walking gentleman.

Well, you can walk all right, so you'll merely have to learn the other part.

My dear," said Mrs. Strongmind, "I want you to accompany me to the town hall tomorrow evening."

What for?" queried the meek and lowly other half of the combine.

I am to lecture on the "Dark Side of Married Life," explained Mrs. S., and I want you to sit on the platform and pose as one of the illustrations.

A certain town in the East produces bright boys. The other day one of them asked his teacher, "How much brains has a hog in his head?"

She replied, "Science has not determined that, Thomas."

"Well, I have," said the boy.

"It would take a philosopher to tell that," responded the teacher, "but you may tell."

"A hog's head full!" replied the grinning urchin.

The Preacher—We never realize the full value of anything until we lose it.

The Bereaved Widow—That's so; especially if the thing lost is insured.

Work and Play for the Idle Hour

DUTCH COLLAR FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

DESIGNED BY ELEANOR NORRIS

Miss Norris' Answers to Correspondents

Anna G.—A very pretty tea apron, which is rather unusual, can be made of dotted Swiss, Val lace and Irish crochet motifs.

Put the Swiss in the popular rounded form, with a shaped belt and trim the edges with Val lace. The apron ties may either be made of ribbon or Swiss edged with lace.

Then decorate the apron with motifs of Irish crochet of some flower and leaf forms.

These motifs can be made in odd moments, or may be purchased ready made, but if made at home, they should be starched and pressed into shape before applying to the apron.

After the Irish crochet motifs have been arranged in some pleasing form, they are sewed to the Swiss.

The combination of dotted-Swiss, Val lace and Irish crochet is unique and makes an exceedingly attractive tea apron.

Blackberry Centerpiece.

Mrs. M.—The blackberry centerpiece was published July 7, 1912. Transfer patterns are not sold, but a copy of that edition can be secured from the circulation department of the paper.

Applique Work.

M. V.—Applique may well be called a handicraft and is very fascinating work, as great ingenuity can be exercised in arranging the applique.

Terra cotta burlap with a darker linen applique would not only make a serviceable cushion, but a practical library seat as well.

For table covers, tan colored linen, with blue applique are lovely. The motifs are applied with blue floss. Harmonious shades of brown, are always in good taste and green linen with contrasting shades of blue and green is very pleasing.

Very often good designs in cretonnes can be used with artistic effect, and the William Morris cretonnes, which are so lovely in design lend themselves very effectively to applique work.

Linen, burlap, unbleached muslin may all serve as the foundation for this work.

Hot Bag.

E. H.—A collapsible hot bag, which is just the thing to take when off for a vacation, where close room is often limited, can be made at home with good results.

A twenty-inch circle of cardboard covered with some fancy material is the foundation. Either silk, lawn or a cotton print can be used and the bag may be a combination of plain and flowered goods of the same kind.

Three rows of material are sewed to the foundation, the first two being four inches wide, the last strip eighteen inches, which allows for the beading and casing. A draw string in the casing is the means of closing the bag.

Between the other strip a piece of bone in a narrow casing holds the bag out in circular form when it is drawn up.

Cardboard standards fastened to the foundation are folded so that they, too, will be collapsible.

This box or bag can be packed flat, and when needed the standards are set up and the bag is drawn into shape and tied with the draw string.

Tailored Bow.

Bess K.—A very pretty tailored bow can be made of the black ribbon, but a stiff tailored bow is folded, not tied.

After the bow is folded, two folds on one side, and one fold with two rounded ends of the velvet on the other side, a folded cross band sewed in place completes the bow.

This would be just the thing to trim either a white or tan felt hat in one of the sailor shapes.

Lingerie Coat.

Mrs. J. M.—Lingerie coats for Summer use are very dainty, as well as practical, for the wee baby, as these little coats can be laundered and so kept fresh and clean.

Sheer linen is the best material to use and the coat should be worn over a slip of either blue, pink or white china silk.

The cape of the little coat is usually hand-embroidered with a scalloped edge. Either a Val or Irish lace edging can be substituted for the scallops.

The coat is finished with a bias binding around the neck and fastened with ribbon ties.

For cooler days a coat of silk and wool is worn over the silk slip.

Angular Eyelets.

W. A. D.—Eyelets with angular corners are often used in the flower forms and are a very pleasing variation from the oblong eyelet flowers, but also harder to make.

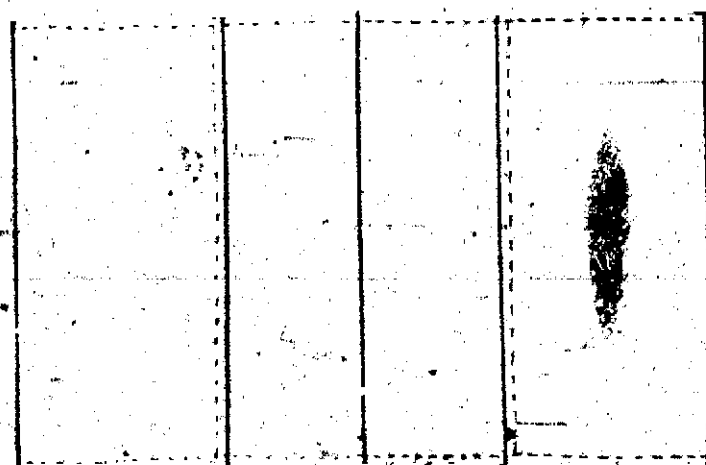

The beauty of these angular or rather triangular eyelet petals depends upon their shapeliness and they should be worked over stiff paper, which is heated under the linen before the work is commenced.

Except for the cutting, the eyelets are made in the same manner as the oval ones. After outlining the eyelet with a running stitch, cut through the center and snip into the corners so that the linen can be turned back to conform to the angular shape. Then proceed to bind in over and over stitch.

Book Cover in Stencil and Embroidery

Book cover of heavy linen in natural color or Russian crash, stenciled in rose design. It is made with pockets in which to slip the covers of the magazine, and may also be used for letters or kodak pictures.

A strip of material ten and one-half by twenty-four and one-half inches is required. Fold over four and one-half inches on each end for pocket and bind with brown satin or grosgrain ribbon. Cover when finished should measure seven and one-half by ten and one-half inches. Roses may be a dull red, leaves gray-green and stems a golden brown.

INSIDE VIEW OF THE FINISHED COVER

HOLLY-PATTERNED LACE

Evening dresses this season show some beautiful features.

For instance, there is a gown of open-work black lace, patterned with a bold design of holly leaves, which is wonderfully effective over a foundation of pearl white satin. Through the meshes of the lace one catches glimpses of a line of silver garter running down the center seam of the skirt. While the gown is hooded with an immensely wide band of heavy silver Chenille, which looks as though it was carved out with a steel saw. A wide belt of the same monogrammed patterned silver lace is folded over the shoulders and tucked into a sash of deep holly-husk pink velvet, which has a wide Japanese bow and one long wide end.

A shaded pink and silver rose is tucked into the folds of lace at the corsage, and round the left shoulder is drawn a filmy drape of the black lace which falls in a cascade over the back of the robe.

ENGLISH MOTOR BONNETS

Easily made is a new motor bonnet greatly affected by English girls of the aristocracy. It consists of a strip of wadded silk lining squared off on the upper side with corded silk exactly following the lines of the machine quilting. Having determined what is the exact length needed to cover the head from ear lobe to ear lobe, the corded strip of lining is slightly curved at one end and that end turned backward to a depth of four inches at its center and measuring barely a roll where the ears are covered. This makes a soft-looking brim, which is faced with shaded thin silk and finished at the edge with a roll cording or a narrow ruffling of silk. At the nape of the neck the edge of the cap is gathered in to fit closely to the head, the lower edge then corded and finally a sash which band of ribbon, starting under a four-loop bow set behind the left ear, is drawn over the crown at the rear of the bonnet's turnback, caught against the right earlap and the remainder of the string knotted with an end starting from under the first rosette.

The Fascinating "Soft" Finish

All of the best flowers seem to be made of a velvet and silk mixture, or all of velvet. Despite its being Summer we seem to adhere to this becoming, if wintry fabric. Anyhow, we obtain coloring and general softness from discreet touches of velvet, unobtainable with any other material. With equal impartiality we wear ermine in Summer, which is not better than feather trimming, which is also a great feature this season. Two shades of patterned chiffon, with narrow strands of ermine or white ostrich feather, form the favorite mode of neckwear abroad. The tulle ruffle has not had the vogue that was expected of it. Such becoming adjuncts as feathery boas, marabou stoles and fluffy chiffons will be favored by the wise woman who knows how her appearance and toilette can be enhanced by such a soft finish.

Next to the raglans in style and even more popular among many athletic women are outing coats called Mackinaw, which are worn by the men of the woods in the northern lands. Now that our women go on heavy trails in British Columbia, hunt moose in Canadian wilds, they need the same kind of garments that the men do in these countries for protection and warmth. Delighted with them there they introduced them here.

The shape quickly took up the idea, and the women who never knew life beyond cobble-paved streets now sport a Mackinaw on a rainy morning. And they are very good looking too, quite as attractive on the women in the business street as on the women in the sports forest. The cut of things changes so rapidly that not one woman with a modicum of allowance wants to be saddled with garments that have not a proper line.

Then there is another reason too. Since motoring has become a habit, the wearing of a top coat is really second nature to most women. It has become such a part of them that they feel as though they needed it on all occasions.

The most notable feature of these coats is the material. Many, coming both in imported and in domestic goods, are shown. The new and tough weaves in stripes, checks and mixtures are particularly smart. Twillings, houndstooth, wool valours, and chevrons also are popular.

It is quite the fact that reversible clothes were unsatisfactory during the latter part of last winter. Manufacturers have purchased some handsome fabrics with plain or striped backs, and are making them up into auto coats. In most cases, however, the reverse side is used for trimming, as was the case last season.

As the majority of these auto coats are made of heavy fabrics they do not admit of much trimming, except outside of the collar and cuffs. Some of the makers are introducing trimming features. Some of the coats and cuffs are trimmed with velvet or fur, and occasionally fur, while others are made of velvet or fur. The majority of collars are an arrangement that can be fastened up at the throat when necessary, and turned back to form revers when the weather permits.

Half and whole belts will be used to a great extent on many of the fall and winter models. Some of the numbers that reached from the workroom show the extreme side fastening.

A new thing is presented in a four-in-hand coat, coat in outdoor style. The model by Amy Linckens is a long, narrow coat, with a twenty-eight inch length. The back is closed and straight, and the sleeves are in a simple form, though set into a large armhole from an extended shoulder. These sleeves have long, narrow cuffs, long narrow collars, and small square velvet collar at back. These extra-long coats, in three-quarter length and very manly styles, are being considerably spoken of as a variation from the full length coat. Paul Poirer is advertising the three-quarter length coat as a street wrap and being much more practical for general utility purposes than the full length coat.

Nearly all of the houses show a few extreme garments in light colors, but these are not generally popular, and the demand is confined to coats that will stand a great deal of hard wear and dust.

The market is full of beautiful materials that lend themselves readily to coats of this character, consequently, the lines now being shown are unusually attractive. The simpler styles, however, seem to have the preference; therefore, great care is taken to select desirable fabrics.

Most of these fabrics are on dark grounds, such as navy, golden brown, and dark gray, but they are illuminated by means of colored threads which are interwoven cleverly to relieve the somberness.

Many of the new models show collars with pointed ends, somewhat on the order of the Robespierre, but they can be fastened in front to keep out either dust or cold.

The sleeves of these auto coats are made in various styles. Some are set in at the elongated shoulder line but the majority are made with the large armhole and easily fitting sleeve, which can be slipped on or off when desired.

While some of the automobile coats are trimmed with plush, velvet, leather, or fur, many are quite plain with the exception of fancy buttonholes and large buttons.

Most of the coats are shown in navy, royal red, hunter's green, and tan. Combinations of dark and light colors are seen in the plaids and stripes.

Medium and long-sleeved coats, while offering a fair percentage of dark linings, contrasting colored satins, two tone effects, both of silk and satin, and an attractive weaves of plain and two tone will silk in the approved season's colorings. This will silk has been well tried out by some manufacturing houses, and will be largely featured in their lines, especially in popular priced grades.

The plain colors generally are in contrast to the fur. For instance, if a dark fur is used, purple, gray, tan, king blue or other contrasting colors are employed for the lining.

Two tone effects are well liked, as they do not show wear so quickly as the plain varieties in light colors. The broadest patterns used in the less expensive merchandises are, rather shown in check, as quite bright colorings appear both in background and in design. King blue is much in evidence, and rose, purple, tan, copenhagen, mustard, and touches of green are used in working out many of the designs.

Darker combinations show blue and black, burgundy and black, dark green and black, gray and blue, and similar colorings. The plain solid shades featured are the staple tones of brown, purple, gray, and taupe.

Automobile wraps are characterized by large collars of the directoire type, and in cut they hold to the slender silhouette of that period.

The panier coats which have been shown by a few of the high-class houses have met with only moderate success. This is due to the fact that the majority of this kind lent themselves very readily to panier of already noted, however, and the later innovations are much more graceful than the earlier models. It is expected that the American adaptation will be even better, and that the panier coat will prove a good seller in evening wraps.

Velvets, satins, crepe melle, and other fabrics of this kind lent themselves very readily to panier of already noted, however, and the later innovations are much more graceful than the earlier models. It is expected that the American adaptation will be even better, and that the panier coat will prove a good seller in evening wraps.

Many novelty wraps which come slightly below the knees are now in course of preparation. Some, in fact, just reach the knees in front and are almost full length in the back.

Top coats in manish materials and built like a man's overcoat are being made up for early fall wear. They are very jaunty and particularly appeal to young women. These usually are in three-quarter to seven-eighth lengths.

By MARY ELEANOR O'DONNELL

The continuation of one piece frocks has made it interesting to look over the various inventions of the manufacturers and the dressmakers in top coats. One marvel at the new ideas. The variety, the capriciousness, the extravagance, and the "lovely" color combinations that will make this age of dress famous has been taken into account for the outer garments.

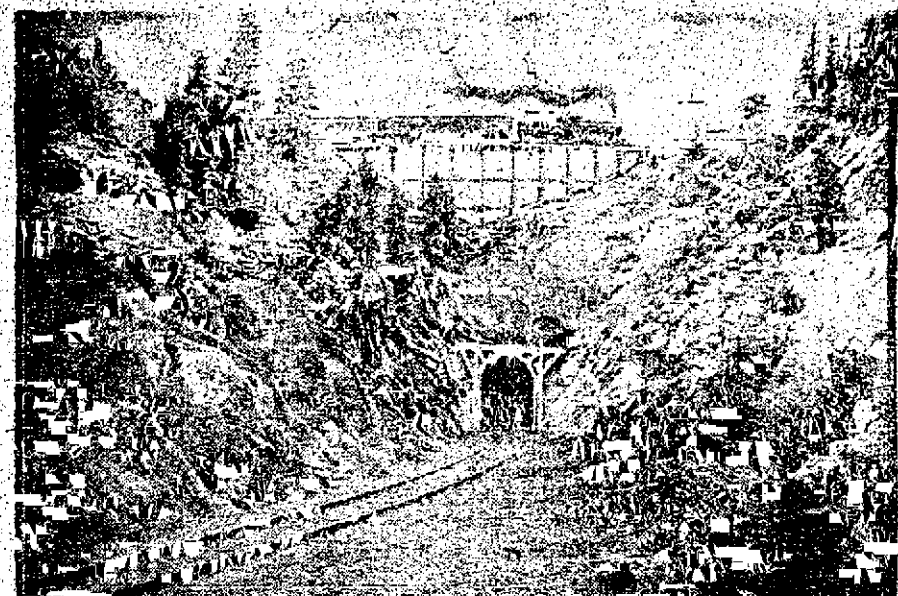

First, there is the sturdy raglan which drops half way between the knees and ankles, has more fullness than any other coat of the day, and only touches the body at the shoulders. It has the sleeves which give it name, many pockets, and huge buttons, and is built of black and white checks more than anything else. It also is made of dull gray, in Scotch homespun, in broad gray and black stripes in rough black fringe, and in striped blue serge. The checks hold first place when they are not too vividly contrasted.

There is a gray tone over the surface of the best ones that softens down the black and white edges and makes the cloth becoming to every one.

COLORADO'S ART POTTERY

Probably the point of interest most attractive to those of an artistic nature is the new pottery plant of the Van Briggie Pottery Company. This is where the world-famed Van Briggie Art Pottery is designed and made, and is easily reached by carriage, automobile or by street car. Van Briggie Pottery is modeled from the peculiarly adaptable clays which are found in the neighborhood of Colorado Springs, and Colorado's beautiful wild flowers form some of the chief decorations. Van Briggie Pottery is especially noted for an individuality of mat glaze which was discovered by Mr. Artus Van Briggie in 1898 and was immediately recognized by the master heads in ceramics. Tourists and visitors to the Pike's Peak region are invited to visit the Van Briggie Pottery, where they may learn how the crude, rough clay taken from the ground is moulded and colored into the uniquely artistic forms which characterize this product of the Centennial state. The display rooms at the Van Briggie Pottery are open from 2 a. m. to 5 p. m. Have your driver stop at the Van Briggie Pottery.
